This industrial dispute between Messrs. Picto & Company, 34, Gobindo Ghosal Lane, Calcutta-25, and their workmen represented by Picto & M.W.I. Workers' Union, 182, Harish Mukherjee Road, Bhowanipore, Calcutta, regarding the matters mentioned below in the issues was referred to this Tribunal for its adjudication under Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 2363Dis./D/10L-82/85, dated the 28th May 1955.

The issues stand as follows:—

(1) Whether the Company was justified in laying off of the following employees:—

(1) Shri Naresh Chandra Das, (2) Shri Gazanan Mahapatra, (3) Shri Hemanta Kumar Maity, (4) Shri Gazendra Nath Shaw, (5) Shri Amulya Acharjee.

(2) What redress and/or compensation are they entitled to?

DECISION.

On the first day for appearance both parties have filed a petition of compromise. This has been filed on behalf of the Company by Shri N. Das Gupto, Advocate, while the Secretary of the Union, Shri Gazanan Mahapatra, who is one of the parties in his personal capacity, signed it on behalf of the workmen represented by the Union. As no other workman was present Shri Das Gupto was heard by the Tribunal and was assured that the compromise in question had really been effected on behalf of all the five employees.

The dispute centred round laying off of five employees. The petition of compromise shows that the laid off workers have been taken back as employees in the Company and an agreed compensation has been paid. The terms prima facie appear to be fair and reasonable. In the circumstances, the compromise is accepted.

The petition of compromise do form a part of the Award which is made accordingly.

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Suburban Electrical Engineering Co., Ltd., 34/C, Ananda Palit Road, Calcutta and ten of their employees, represented by the Secretary, G. T. R. Co. Workers' Union, 27/A, Mandalpara Lane, Calcutta-2.

BEFORE THE SEVENTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL.

PRESENT :

DR. B. K. BHTTACHARYA, M.A., LL.B., Ph.D. (London), Barrister-at-Law, District Judge, Judge, Seventh Industrial Tribunal.

Appearance :

For the Union: Shri Panchanan Bhattacharjee, President.

For the Company: Shri G. Goswami, Director.

This industrial dispute between Messrs. Suburban Electrical Engineering Co., Ltd., 34/C, Ananda Palit Road, Calcutta and ten of their employees mentioned in the issue represented by the Secretary, G. T. R. Co. Workers' Union, 27/A, Mondalpara Lane, (C/o. Kesto Chandra Das), Calcutta-2, was referred to this Tribunal for adjudication under Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 1910Dis./D/10L-35/55, dated the 2nd May 1955.

The dispute relates to the retrenchment of 10 workmen on October 15, 1954.

In the written statement the workmen have claimed reinstatement on the ground that the retrenchment was mala fide and contrary to the principles of natural justice. Harendra, who has since been re-employed by the Company, does not want to proceed with the dispute. The merits of his case, therefore, have not been considered.

The Company in its written statement has mentioned inter alia that it used to manufacture fans and as the production was seasonal and as the Company was facing the alternative of giving work for only four or five days per week, all the workmen agreed that some should be retrenched altogether after giving 15 days' pay in lieu of notice and that, accordingly, after making necessary payments, the details of which are given at page 2 of the written statement, the agreement was given effect to.

The issue stands as follows:—

(1) What relief are the following workmen entitled to? (i) Shri Nani Gopal Bhattacharya, (ii) Shri Kesto Chandra Das, (iii) Shri Monomohan Bhattacharyya, (iv) Shri Harendra Chandra Sikdar, (v) Shri Kanai Lal Mukherjee, (vi) Shri Debendra Nath Sardar, (vii) Shri Amarendra Nath Sing, (viii) Shri Ashutosh Ghosh, (ix) Shri Sachin Kumar Mitra and (x) Shri Surendra Nath Paul.

Decision.

It appears from the evidence of the Manager of the Company, Dilip Kumar Chatterjee, that all along the Company has been working at a loss. This Manager himself is a mere student of Second-Year I.Com. class of a local College. That shows the position of the Company. It appears that at present there are only 13 or 14 employees in the firm, and one of the retrenched hands, Harendra Nath Sarkar, has since been given re-employment by the Company. Harendra has filed a petition in some details in which he says that he has no grievances regarding retrenchment or claim to any dues. Obviously, the firm is a very small one. In 1954, it could not give work for 8 days, as has been elicited during hearing. In 1955, from March to June, only 21 fans appear to have been manufactured, and, according to the evidence, not one has been sold. At the time of cross-examination of the Manager, it has been suggested on behalf of the workmen that the latter were dismissed only because they had demanded bonus and had taken a leading part in this demand. In the written statement of the employees, however, no such ground appears. One of the 10 workmen, Kesto Ch. Das has been examined on behalf of the employees. He also does not say that there was any vindictiveness or mala fides in selecting the ten employees for retrenchment. From the Manager we get that all those retrenched had been employed by the firm subsequent to the remaining 13 or 14 employees kept on by the firm. Kesto in one place mentions: "All the existing employees had joined the firm previous to our joining there for the first time", though in another place he says that this is true only in the case of 10 of the remaining hands and yet in another says that he does not remember which of these 14 employees had entered the firm before those who were retrenched or if they had joined the firm after the latter. It may, therefore, be taken first that there was no departure from the equitable principle of "Last to come, first to go", a principle which has been embodied in section 25(G) of the Industrial Disputes Act.

In the second place, there was need of retrenchment and of rationalisation, as matters stood. The extent of this retrenchment, the management is in the best position to judge, and it will be improper in my opinion, for the Tribunal to substitute its own judgment in the circumstances.

An element of surprise and indecision on their own part and of high-handedness on the part of the Company has been sought to be introduced by the employees. The Company has not been able to prove the alleged agreement with all the workmen about retrenchment, but the very fact that it was known that five days' bonus only was being paid on 15th October 1955 in final payment substantially dispels, in view of the total amount paid, the charge that a surprise was being sprung on the workmen. As regards use of force mentioned in the written statement of workmen, there is no evidence.

It may be mentioned here that there has been no employment of any outsiders after the retrenchment was effected, and the Company would do well to observe in future also the principle enunciated in section 25H of the Industrial Disputes Act, if the time comes for employment of other hands. It may be that there has been some dispute regarding the future status, in this connexion, between the Company on the one hand and two of the workmen on the other, as four postcards (Exts. 1 to 10) would show. This, however, is a matter beyond the scope of the reference. So far there has been no deviation from section 25H aforesaid. From the facts and circumstances, therefore, it cannot be held that the retrenchment was vindictive or mala fide or contrary to the principles of natural justice. Accordingly the workmen in question should not be reinstated.

The next question is what relief the retrenched workmen are entitled to. At the outset it may be stated that the representative of the workmen, Shri Panchanan Bhattacharya, has mentioned that the statements regarding the period of service and the details of payment on the final date, as at pages 1 and 2 respectively of the written statement filed by the employer, are correct. From evidence it is clear that the actual period of notice was only 15 days. According to law one month's notice was essential, no matter whether the workmen as a special concession were not asked to work during this period of 15 days. The proviso to section 25F(a) of the Industrial Disputes Act is not applicable. All the employees in question, therefore, are entitled to get now wages for 15 days more in lieu of notice.

Next, it has been argued on the side of the employer that because the Company was running at a loss, no retrenchment benefit should be granted. Prior to the amendment of 1953, some discretion was left with Tribunals, but now section 25F(b) is mandatory and each workman must be paid compensation at the rate of 15 days' average pay for every completed year of service or any part thereof in excess of six months. The Tribunal is to administer the law as it finds it and not as it would like it to be even when a genuine case of hardship arises. The pay structure given in the written statement of the employer, which has been admitted on the other side, does not however give the entire history. It records only the wages last drawn. It is not possible to compute the average pay, in case there was any increment. As a working basis, therefore, only the wages mentioned at page 2 of the written statement of the employer are available. On this basis, over and above the compensation in lieu of 15 days' additional notice, the workmen detailed below are entitled to get respectively the following amounts:—

A. Shri Nanigopal Bhattacharya—Rs. 2-6-0 × 45.

B. Shri Kesto Chandra Das—Rs. 2-2-0 × 45.

C. Shri Monomohan Bhattacharya—Rs. 1-10-0 × 45.

D. Shri Kanailal Mukherjee—Rs. 2-2-0 × 30.

E. Shri Debendra Sardar—Rs. 2-4-0 × 105.

F. Shri Amarendra Nath Sing—Re. 1-6-0 × 45.

G. Shri Ashutosh Ghosh—Rs. 2-4-0 × 45.

H. Shri Sachindra Kumar Mitra—Re. 1-10-0 × 60.

I. Shri Surendra Nath Paul—Re. 1-6-0 × 15.

On behalf of the workers a claim has been made that compensation should be given in lieu of 4 days' leave per annum not allowed to the workers. This claim did not originally find a place in the written statement of the workmen. It was after it had transpired in evidence that the management had diverted 4 days' leave out of 12 to dates fixed for some festivals, at the request of the workers, that the representative of the workmen demanded this specifically for the first time before the Tribunal. There is, however, no statutory festival leave, and if out of the total period of leave of 18 days, 4 days were earmarked at the special request of the workmen for some special days—and there is no evidence that these were not availed of—in the circumstances it cannot be said that the total period of leave was wrongfully curtailed and that the present moment is an opportune one for opening the question for the first time. In my opinion, compensation should not be allowed on this head. As regards workman Harendra Chandra Sikdar (alias Harendra Nath Shib Sarkar), it has already been noticed that he has compromised the case with the employers. He has disclaimed all dues and withdrawn all grievances regarding retrenchment, presumably because he has been re-appointed. Exhibit A and the petition, dated 6th June 1955, filed by him, along with the petition filed to-day by Shri Panchanan Bhattacharya, the President of the Union, will go to show this compromise, though a joint petition of compromise in the technical sense has not been filed. In the circumstances, as the terms appear prima facie to be fair and reasonable the dispute, as prayed for, is allowed to be taken off the file.

In order to mitigate any hardship for the Company in the present state of affairs, half the aforesaid amounts payable in respect of the remaining 9 workmen may be made within six weeks of the publication of the award and the other half is to be paid not later than the end of December 1955.

The Award is given accordingly in so far as the 10 workmen in question, except Harendra, are concerned about whom a "No Dispute" award is recorded, as prayed for by the workman himself.

ORDER.

No. 3239Dis./D/11L-182/55.—19th July 1955.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 67Dis./D/11L-223/52, dated the 5th January 1953, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Mackenzie Lyall & Co., 5, Mission Row, Calcutta and their workmen represented by Mackenzie Lyall & Co.'s Employees' Association, 65, Kansaripara Road, Calcutta-25, regarding the matters specified in the schedule thereto was referred for adjudication to the Fifth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas during the pendency of proceedings before the said Tribunal a complaint in writing was made by Shri Chaitan, a workman of the said Company, before the said Tribunal, against the said company, alleging that the said Company had discharged the said workman concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Tribunal has adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of a complaint under the section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, filed by one Chaitan, a sweeper in the employ of Messrs. Mackenzie Lyall & Co., against the aforesaid Company.

BEFORE THE FIFTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL.

PRESENT:

SHRI G. PALIT, District Judge, Chairman, Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

Present for the Company: Shri P. R. Mookerji, Lawyer.

Present for the employee: Shri Adinath Banerji.

1. The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under Government order No. 67Dis./D/11L-223/52, dated 5th January 1953.

AWARD.

2. The petitioner was a sweeper in the employ of the above Company on a salary of Rs. 30 plus dearness allowance Rs. 31. He was discharged by a notice on June 1st, 1953, and he was given one month's salary in lieu of proper notice. The petitioner contends that the principle of "last come, first go" was not followed in his case, and that he had put in 6 years' service under the Company.

The Company, on the other hand, contends that the said principle of "last come, first go" was strictly followed in the matter of his retrenchment. Ghaitan was the juniormost among the sweepers having put in only two years' service. The Company had three sweepers for their premises. But as the business of the Company became dull, it had to sublet a portion of the said premises in May, 1953. So, now it did not require the services of all the three sweepers.

During the hearing none of the parties did adduce any evidence. The petitioner also gave up the claim of reinstatement. He merely insisted on having some compensation. He wanted compensation under the section 25F of the Act. But he cannot invoke this amended section to his benefit because the present retrenchment took place long before that. Besides, the retrenchment being bona fide, "the last come first go" being followed the question of compensation cannot, strictly speaking, arise. So if he is to be given any compensation, it should be on the basis of social justice. As the man had no previous inkling about his retrenchment, it is only in the fitness of things that he should get some compensation for the sudden loss of service. Mere notice pay is not enough. So I grant him further one month's basic salary as compensation on the scale last drawn besides what has been given by the Company in lieu of notice. This should be paid within one month of the award coming into operation.

DECISION.

This appeal is directed against an order under section 33A holding that the suspension of the respondents without the permission in writing of the Tribunal, for an indefinite period, in the circumstances, stated hereinafter, is punishment.

On the 25th August 1952, a reference was made by the Government of West Bengal for adjudication of certain disputes between this Company and its workmen. During the pendency of the adjudication proceedings before the Tribunal, the respondents, namely, (1) Krishna Swarnakar, (2) Golak Swain and (3) Brij Behari Tewari, who were concerned in the main dispute, were charge-sheeted for certain acts of misconduct. The Company's case is that the Manager held an enquiry into the charges and as a result of the enquiry, the Company decided to dismiss them. But as the main dispute, in which these workmen were also concerned, was pending before the Tribunal, the management decided to suspend them as a security measure, and to make an application before the Tribunal under section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, for permission to dismiss them on that account. On the 24th of December 1952, these workmen were actually suspended. Thereafter on the 15th of January 1953, the respondents made a complaint before the Tribunal under section 33A of the Act, alleging that their suspension was for an indefinite period without the express permission of the Tribunal and as such, the Company's order was hit by the provisions of section 33 of the Act. They accordingly prayed that "the employers may be directed to allow them to resume, pay them wages for the period of suspension or unemployment and restore the cuts in wages, if any, with retrospective effect."

It appears that on the 15th of January 1953, the Company also made an application under section 33 of the Act, seeking permission of the Tribunal for dismissal of the respondents on the ground of misconduct. On the 7th of September 1953, the award in the main case was given and it we duly published on the 1st of October 1953 in the official Gazette. The applications under sections 33 and 33A of the Act were, however, taken up on the 26th of March 1953 long before the award was made and duly published and the judgment was reserved. On the 16th of November 1953, the application under section 33 was struck off on the ground that it had become infructuous inasmuch as more than a month had expired from the date of publication of the award in the main case. On the 29th of April 1954, however, the complaint under section 33A was allowed and the Tribunal recorded its finding in these words:—

> "In view of the nature of evidence, I come to the conclusion that the Company has miserably failed to show that any of the charges brought against these three workmen was true. I hold that the charges have not been established....."

This finding of the Tribunal has not been challenged before us.

Now the question that has been raised before us is whether the suspension without pay of the respondents, continuing even after the application under section 33 had been struck off, is a punishment within the meaning of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The contention of Shri Das Gupta, appearing for the Company, is that the suspension of the respondents was by way of security measure and even though the application under section 33 was struck off, it cannot be said to be a punishment and as such the provisions of section 33 were not contravened. We cannot accept this contention.

It is not disputed that the suspension of the respondents continued even after the application under section 33 was struck off. The respondents were neither paid their wages for the period of suspension nor were they dismissed after the order under section 33 was made by the Tribunal. In such circumstances, we have to consider what actually was the intention of the employer in making the order of suspension. It was held in the case of the Assam Oil Co., Ltd., post office Digboi, Assam versus Appalswami, Regd. No. 23288 (1954, L.A.C., page 307) that whether a suspension amounts to punishment depends upon the intention of the parties. If the intention be to continue the order of suspension irrespective of the result of the application, the provisions of section 33 is clearly attracted. The conduct of the management after their application under section 33 had been struck off shows that the obvious intention of the management was to keep the respondents under suspension by way of punishment irrespective of the result of the application under section 33. Their suspension must, therefore, be held to be punishment. The view taken by the Tribunal cannot, therefore, be said to be erroneous. The contention of Mr. Das Gupta must therefore be rejected. The appeal is accordingly dismissed with cost which we assess at Rs. 32.

Messrs. Gresham & Craven of India, Ltd., Calcutta ... Respondent.

In the matter of an appeal against the award of Shri J. N. Maitra, Judge, Industrial Tribunal, Calcutta, dated 8th July 1954, in respect of an industrial dispute between the above parties.

Dated, the 24th March 1955.

DECISION.

This appeal is from a decision on a complaint made under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. The appellant was charge-sheeted on the ground of misconduct, the misconduct being that he interfered with the working of the machine and when the machine was repaired he took the repairer to task for having repaired the machine so soon. He was also found asleep on three different occasions and he did admit before the Tribunal that at least he was found asleep. The Management charge-sheeted him on the ground of misconduct and examined witnesses but without obtaining permission from the Tribunal, discharged him. The Tribunal had, therefore, the right to go into the merits of the case regarding the order of the Management dismissing the workman. Before the Tribunal, the Management had examined four witnesses substantiating the charges. The appellant himself cross-examined one of the witnesses and later on examined other witnesses. The Tribunal has found on the materials before it that the appellant was guilty of having tampered with the machine and was guilty of sleeping during working hours and in this view of the matter, it has held that the dismissal was justified.

There was an allegation by the workmen that he had been victimised for his union activities but the Tribunal has not accepted the case of victimisation. The question of victimisation would not arise for obvious reasons as the appellant admits that on one occasion at least he was found sleeping during working hours. As the Tribunal has decided this case purely on questions of facts and no question of law is involved in the appeal it must be held to be incompetent. We must, therefore, accept the contention of the respondent that the appeal is not competent. Even if we are in a position to come to a contrary decision on the evidence before the Tribunal, we do not think that we are justified in interfering the order inasmuch as the Tribunal has not committed an error of law much less than substantial question of law. The appeal is, therefore, dismissed. In these circumstances, we make no order as to costs.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

By the Cooch Behar (Assimilation of State Laws) Act, 1950 (West Ben. Act LXIII of 1950) all laws, relating to matters in the State List of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution and which are in force in West Bengal, have been extended to Cooch Behar to the exclusion of old Cooch Behar laws, except that certain Cooch Behar Acts specified in Schedule I to the Act still continue in force with adaptations and the corresponding Acts in force in other districts of West Bengal specified in Schedule II thereof do not apply to Cooch Behar.

The Cooch Behar Cess Act, 1893 (Cooch Behar Act V of 1893) and the Cooch Behar Revenue Sales Act, 1897 (Cooch Behar Act V of 1897) are among the old Acts of the Cooch Behar State which are still in force in Cooch Behar with certain adaptations. The words "Naib Ahilkar" or "Naib Ahilkar of the Subdivision" occurring in these Acts were adapted to "Deputy Collector" or "Deputy Collector in charge of the subdivision", respectively. Owing to paucity of officers, Deputy Collectors are not always available for posting to subdivisions. Sub-Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors are often required to be placed in the charge of subdivisions. In view of this, the adaptations of "Naib Ahilkar" or "Naib Ahilkar of the Subdivision" in the Cooch Behar Acts, referred to, have to be so changed as to enable Sub-Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors also to function under those Acts, where necessary. This requires an amendment of the Cooch Behar (Assimilation of State Laws) Act, 1950 and this Bill embodies the necessary amendments.

Repeal of section 25.

4. Section 25 of the said Code is hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Previously Justices of the Peace were appointed for certain specified purposes but at present, though section 22 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 provides for the appointment of Justices of the Peace and section 7 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866 (Ben. Act IV of 1866) provides that the Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioners of Police in Calcutta shall be appointed Justices of the Peace, all Acts and Regulations defining their functions have been repealed. It is now proposed to provide for the appointment of Justices of the Peace from amongst the members of the public and to vest them with certain powers for the benefit of the people as well as for helping the administration in the prevention and detection of crime. The Bill has been drawn up accordingly. The proposed new sections 22, 22A and 22B will replace section 22 of the Code, and section 25 of the Code declaring certain officers of Government to be ex-officio Justices of the Peace will be repealed.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Subject:—Transaction of Treasury Cash business by the Bank on Government holidays which are not holidays under the Negotiable Instruments Act.

No. TM/514.—16th July 1955.—In supersession of this office notification No. TM/474, dated the 9th August 1954 (published on page 2805 of Part I of the Calcutta Gazette, dated 19th August 1954), the following instructions are issued:—

(a) Payment on Government account of instruments which do not require to pass through the Treasury under the rules and of bills or cheques already enfaced by the Treasury on a previous working day, if presented at the Bank on subsequent non-Act holidays, may continue to be paid by the Bank on non-Act holidays on which the Bank remains open.

(b) Similarly, receipts in respect of which the chalans can be presented at the Bank without the intervention of the Treasury under the rules or have been enfaced by the Treasury on some previous working day may be accepted by the Bank on such non-Act holidays.

(c) The accounts of Government transactions carried on by the Bank on such non-Act holidays should be incorporated in the Treasury accounts on the next working day of the Treasury.

2. All Treasury and Sub-Treasury Officers in West Bengal should note the above instructions.

(Government of West Bengal, Finance Department, Audit Branch, letter No. 1924F., dated 25th June 1955, filed in file No. TM/1-44 of 53-54.)

Subject: Maintenance of Treasury Pass Book.

No. TM/515.—20th July 1955.—It has come to notice that in the case of offices where the Treasury Pass Book is maintained, the practice of making entries in the Pass Book is not uniform. In some treasuries the net amount (i.e., amount actually paid by the treasury after deductions on various account, viz., P.L.I., H.F.A. Fund, G. P. Fund, house rent, etc.) of the establishment bills is exhibited in the pass book while in some others the gross amount of such bills is shown. As the actual cash received from the treasury is required to be accounted for in the departmental cash books and as the entries in the cash book should tally with those of the Pass Books it is essential that only the net amounts (and not gross) of the Establishment bills paid by the treasuries after deductions are entered in the Pass Books.

All Treasury Officers in West Bengal and Heads of Offices concerned will please note the above instructions for guidance.

Dy Accountant-General.

AWARD ON PRELIMINARY POINT.

According to the statement submitted on behalf of the workers the Company kept the factory closed on the 24th October 1953, when the workers appeared to resume work after the puja holidays. A batch of policemen was also posted at the gate. On the workers' insisting to have access to the factory the Manager asked them to sign a bond. The workers refused to sign any bond and the matter was ultimately taken to the Labour Commissioner. Nothing fruitful was accomplished in the conferences held by the Labour Department. Sixteen workers were informed by the Company that they have been dismissed.

The Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., in the written statement while traversing the allegations pointedly stated that the business was transferred to Messrs. Padma, Limited, on 26th November 1952. Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., was not the employer at the date of the discharge. The services of the workmen concerned have been terminated by the Padma, Limited. The validity of the reference was challenged.

Notice was issued to Messrs. Padma, Limited and written statement was filed by them (Company) on the same lines. The point of law was canvassed by this Company, viz., Padma, Limited, as well that the reference was not a valid one.

The preliminary objection is that long before the accrual of the cause of action the Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., was divested on all its rights and interests in the business which had vested in the transferee Company, Messrs. Padma, Limited. On the date of the alleged dispute there was no relationship of employer and employee between Messrs. Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., and the men under reference. Termination of services was also effected by the transferee Company. The dispute was between Messrs. Padma, Limited and the workers. Section 2(k) of the Industrial Dispute Act defines industrial dispute as a dispute or difference between employers and workmen. The existence of the relationship of employer and workmen is an essential constituent for making up an "industrial dispute". The Company produced a deed of transfer by which the right, title and interest of the Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., passed to Messrs. Padma, Limited, on 26th November 1952. A notice was also issued on the same date to all the workmen of the factory regarding the transfer. It is perfectly clear that in October 1953, when troubles broke out, the Padma, Limited, was the employer. The reference was made on the footing that Messrs. Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., was the employer. In fact Messrs. Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., was out of the picture at that time and no relationship of employer and employee existed between that Company and the workers. The argument advanced on behalf of the Company that the dispute as referred to the Tribunal lacked an essential element inasmuch as the Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., was not the employer appears sound. The dispute cannot be treated as an industrial dispute since the Eastern Plywood Co. was not the employer at that time. On behalf of the workers the learned Labour representative submitted that Padma, Limited, having been joined as a party by a subsequent order of the Tribunals, the defects, if any, was rectified. I cannot endorse this view. If the reference itself was ineffective because of the party who was not the employer being treated as the employer, the impleading of the real employer at a subsequent stage could not retroactively validate the reference. Government alone has the power to make a reference. If a reference is no reference on account of the lack of an essential ingredient the Tribunal cannot assume the power to plug the vacuum and make a reference of its own by bringing a new party or otherwise.

Another point pressed by the Labour representative was that Messrs. Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., did not at all inform the Labour Department of the transfer or the reference would have been made of a dispute between the workers and the transferee Company. It is quite possible that the transfer made in 1952 was not disclosed during the correspondences and conferences with the Labour Commissioner. The conduct of the Eastern Plywood Co., Ltd., in keeping this fact undisclosed in no doubt open to severe reproof. But this conduct of the transferor Company cannot affect Messrs. Padma, Limited. It is quite open to the transferee Company to urge that there was no industrial dispute inasmuch as the real employer was not a party in the proceeding before the Government. My conclusion therefore is that the preliminary objection is sound and ought to prevail.

The workers are not without any remedy. On the Government being moved in regard to the dispute between these workers and the Padma, Limited, a fresh reference may be made which would be quite in order.

BEFORE THE SIXTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, NEW SECRETARIAT BUILDINGS, THIRD FLOOR, CALCUTTA.

PRESENT:

SHRI SAILESH CHANDRA SENGUPTA, Judge,
Sixth Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances:

For the Company: Shri J. N. Chatterjee, Assistant Labour Adviser of Indian Engineering Association.

For the workmen: Shri P. K. Sen, Assistant Secretary of the Union.

The original reference out of which these complaints have arisen was made under Government order No. 199Dis./D/10L-168/53, dated Calcutta, the 20th January 1954.

AWARD.

These six applications under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act directed against the same Company, viz., Messrs. Berapukur Iron Works, have been taken up and dealt with together as the same question of law on a preliminary point arises in all of them.

On the discharge of one of their workmen Shri Nanku Manji, a reference under section 10 was made to this Tribunal by the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department. The points for adjudication were—

(1) Whether the Company was justified in discharging Shri Nanku Manji from the 10th August 1953.

(2) Is he entitled to any relief?

During the pendency of this reference the Company laid off Shri Bishnupada Ghosh and 45 others who have applied to the Tribunal for relief on the ground that the lay off was effected in contravention of section 33.

Similar action by way of lay off was taken against Shri Mohan Chandra Maity, Shri Sudhir Ghosh, Badal Chandra Manji. All these workers have applied for relief under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Abdul Wahab and 20 others made an application under the same section on the allegation that shift work was introduced in variation of their service conditions.

Shri Panchu Bag and four others have come up for relief under the same section on the allegation that their services have been terminated wrongfully.

A preliminary objection was taken that none of these applicants are concerned in the dispute between Nanku Manji and the Company, that was pending during the relevant period. It must be conceded that the dispute raised by Nanku Manji was confined exclusively to him. No question of general interest had arisen. The other workers who have appeared before this Tribunal for redress of their several grievances were not interested in the dispute raised by Nanku Manji. The learned Labour representative submitted that since Nanku Manji's case was espoused by the Union, all the members of the Union must be held concerned in the dispute. This argument is wholly untenable. For the purposes of representation the Union had the right to appear before the Tribunal. The Union's intervention did not alter the nature or complexion of the dispute, which was an individual dispute concerning the interest of Nanku Manji alone. By no stretch of imagination one can say that the other workers were concerned in that dispute. The plain answer, therefore, is that the pendency of the dispute did not create conditions for the operation of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. The objection pressed on behalf of the Company on the preliminary point must hence prevail.

The applications under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act are accordingly rejected.

Taken at my dictation and corrected by me.

Both parties appeared on the due date.

The following issue had arisen originally:—

(1) Whether the termination of services of Shri Dayanidhi Mahanty and Shri Madan Barik was justified? To what relief by way of reinstatement and/or compensation are they entitled?

The Company has filed a petition stating that the disputes with both the workmen were amicably settled. The details of compromise have been stated in Annexure "A", which purports to be a copy of the original petition of compromise.

Madan Barik and Dayanidhi Mahanty were examined by me today. Both of them agreed that all the points of dispute were settled and that in full satisfaction payments had been received from the Company—Rs. 4,099-14-2 by Madan Barik and Rs. 2,398-2 by Dayanidhi Mahanty. Admittedly there is no dispute pending.

Present for the Company: Shri P. R. Mookerji, Lawyer.

Present for the employees: Shri Adinath Banerji.

1. The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under Government order No. 67Dis./D/11L-223/52, dated 5th January 1953.

AWARD.

2. It is the contention of the petitioners that they all have been retrenched by the Company because of their Union activities. The Company bore grudge against the Union which was registered in April 1952. They were retrenched on the 2nd February 1953. Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari, P.W. 1, and Shri Ramtarak Chatterji, one of the petitioners, were the Secretary and the Vice-President of the Union, respectively.

The Company denies the allegations and says that it was forced to have recourse to the said retrenchment as a measure of economy. It further says that the principle of "last come, first go" was strictly observed in the present case. Three men out of the five petitioners, says the Company, have taken their dues in full settlement of their claims.

Regarding the contention of the Union that there was no cause for the retrenchment, the evidence points to the contrary. In the main case of this company I have shown how the Company had been sustaining mounting losses in course of the years from 1949 to 1952. The gross profits from Rs. 1,22,000 and odd in 1949-50 came down to only Rs. 22,000 and odd in 1952. In that view of the matter I upheld the retrenchment of 18 men in the main case. It is significant that the Union did not press for the reinstatement of those men during the hearing, but only pressed for compensation. That makes it abundantly clear that even the Union came to appreciate that the Company's finances were steadily deteriorating, and that general retrenchment could hardly be resisted.

Regarding the main contention of the Union that these five men were selected for retrenchment because of their Union activities, I find that barring Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari, who was the Secretary of the Union, and Shri Ramtarak Chatterji, who was the Vice-President of the Union, the other three petitioners had practically no mentionable Union activities to their credit. In the cross-examination Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari had to confess that he was not sure if these three men were members of their Union. These three men have finally taken their dues, and do not turn up to contest this case. So it is idle for the Union to contend that these three men were selected for retrenchment because of their connection with the Union. Regarding Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari and Shri Ramtarak Chatterji, the latter does not turn up to contest this case. So there is reason to think that he is also not very sanguine about his contention. However, let me scrutinise this contention of the Union in the light of evidence on record. It is contended by the Union that the Company had been all along bearing a grudge against the Union. That will be evidenced by the fact that ever since the formation of the Union the Company had started to retrench its workmen. The Company also makes no secret of this grudge as will appear from its letters exchanged with the Union. But the evidence on record does not bear this out. Regarding the present retrenchment as a result of this alleged animosity, I remain to be convinced. The first batch of 18 men were retrenched long before the formation of the Union. I have already found that there were good grounds, viz., economic grounds, for their retrenchment. Then regarding the retrenchment of Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari and Shri Ramtarak Chatterji, they were retrenched one year after the registration of the Union. So their retrenchment also did not come in close sequence of the registration of the Union. Regarding the correspondence, my attention has been drawn to Ext. B. That does not bear out any such grudge as alleged. It seems to me perfecty innocuous. So the alleged grudge of the Company against the Union remains to be substantiated. If I look to other facts elicited in this case, I do not find them also to substantiate this allegation. For instance, other members of the Union, including some members of the Executive Committee, still remain in the employ of the Company. While so many men were being retrenched, the Company, if it had really any such ulterior motive to throttle the Union, could have axed all the members of the Executive Committee of the Union along with the Vice-President and the Secretary. But that has not been done. As an evidence of this alleged grudge, the Union says that the principle of "last come, first go" was not applied in their case. My attention has been drawn to the Annexure B to the Union's written statement. I find that only Shri P. K. Sen and Shri Nirmal Dutta were junior to Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari and Shri Ramtarak Chatterji. But there is a good deal of doubt about the accuracy of this list, so far as the length of service is concerned. Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari says that this list was drawn up by Shri Ramtarak Chatterji with the help of another man in the Accounts Department. But neither Shri Rmatarak Chatterji, nor the other man of the Accounts Department come up to vouch for the accuracy of this list. If the Company's exhibits C and C1 are accepted, then Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari has only 4 years 6 months' service to his credit, and Shri Ramtarak has 5 years and one month's service including the temporary service rendered. In that view Shri Nirmal Dutta does not appear to be junior to them. Regarding Shri P. K. Sen, he is merely a typist. If there is retrenchment effected in any particular department which is watertight, the mere fact that some other junior persons are left untouched in other departments cannot lead to an inference that the he principle of "last come, first go" has been departed from. In the present case the Union wanted to show that Shri Ramtarak Chatterji and Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari were mere ordinary clerks, and they did not do any specialised job. But the evidence displaces this contention. Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari held a license from the Custom House qualifying him for work in the Landing and Clearing Department. It is further admitted that he has all along been attached to this particular department. Similarly, if Mr. Wilks is to be believed, Shri Ramtarak was given 6 months' training to make him eligible for his job. So, he also did some sort of special work. Now, retrenchment in those two departments where these two men had been working, was effected. That they were the juniormost in those respective departments could not be disputed. That being so, if they were selected for the retrenchment, I can never find that the principle of "last come, first go" was infringed. Besides, when a case for a general retrenchment is made out, and the Company's action could not be tainted with any mala fide, a slight technical departure from the principle of "last come, first go" could not go far enough. So, considering the matter from all its standpoints, I am unable to accept the Union's contention and disturb the Company's decision of retrenchment in the present case. So the question of reinstatement does not arise.

Regarding the retrenchment relief the petitioners tried to invoke the section 25 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, to bear on the quantum of relief. But the retrenchment in question having taken place long before the amendment of the said section, no relief under that section can be claimed ipso facto. But from the Exts. C and C1, under which the Company offered to give compensation to these two persons, I find that there is hardly any material difference in the quantum of relief as afforded in the said amended section. So I allow Rs. 195 to Shri Jagannath Sarbadhikari, and Rs. 367-8 to Shri Ramtarak Chatterji, as per Exts. C and C1, offered by the Company. I grant no relief to the other three petitioners who have already received their dues in final settlement of their claims. The above amounts are made payable within 15 days of the award coming into operation.

Bird & Co., Ltd., Chartered Bank Buildings, Calcutta and their workmen employed at Kantapukur Shed, Hide Road, Tea Transit Shed, Tea Warehouse and 3 King George's Dock as represented by Bird & Co. Labour Union of Calcutta, 4B, Kaila Sarak Road, Kidderpore, Calcutta-23, West Bengal Bird & Co. Mazdoor Union, 94, Garden Reach Road, Kidderpore, Calcutta-23 and Bird & Co. Mazdoor Congress, 37C, Nazir Lane, Calcutta-23, was referred for adjudication to the Fifth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas during pendency of proceedings before the said Tribunal, a complaint was filed before it by Md. Ismail and seven others against the said Company alleging that the said Company had discharged the said eight workmen concerned in such dispute;

And whereas in exercise of the powers conferred by section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the said Tribunal had adjudicated upon the said complaint and submitted its award to the State Government;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of a complaint under the section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, proposed to be filed by 43 workers, but actually signed and done by eight workers, Md. Ismail and seven workers, against Messrs. Bird & Co., Southern Section.

AWARD.

1. The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under Government orders Nos. 3274Dis./D/11L-234/52, dated 26th November 1952 and 2331Dis./D/11L-13/53, dated 29th June 1953.

2. These eight petitioners out of the 43 temporary workmen contend that they were dismissed by the Company with effect from the 15th February 1953, when the main case concerning the above Company was pending before the Tribunal, and that it was done without the express permission of the said Tribunal in writing being obtained. As such, the section 33 of the Act, it is said, has been violated. They pray for reinstatement.

The Company contends, on the other hand, that these workmen were not direct and regular employees of the Company. They were mere seasonal employees. They were appointed for six months after which their services would automatically terminate. As such, the section 33 of the Act is not attracted to their present case.

I accept the contention of the Company, and find that the section 33 of the Act has not been violated. In cases of automatic termination of service no permission of the Tribunal is necessary. So this petition under the section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is liable to be rejected. I reject it accordingly.

2. It is the contention of the petitioners who are workers under one Nimudas Sirdar, that they were dismissed by the above Company with effect from the 22nd January 1953 without having obtained the previous permission of the Tribunal when the main case concerning this Company was pending before the Tribunal. As such, they contend, the section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act has been violated. They pray for reinstatement.

The Company, on the other hand, contends that the contract between the Company and Nimudas Sirdar had terminated on the 13th December 1952. The Company disowns Nimudas Sirdar's men as its direct employees So, according to the Company, the section 33 of the Act is not attracted to this case, and consequently the application under the section 33A, as has been filed here is out of place.

I accept the contention of the Company as correct. These workmen were never direct employees of the Company. If they have any grievance that must be with the Sirdar under whom they were working. They cannot have any grievance against the Company. So the section 33 of the Act is not evidently attracted to this case. As such this application under the section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is liable to be rejected. I reject it accordingly.

2. The petitioners contend that they were dismissed by the Company in June 1953 when the main case concerning this Company was pending before the Tribunal, and that it was done without the express permission in writing of the said Tribunal. So, it is said, the section 33 of the Act has been infringed. So they want relief under the section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

The Company contends that they were never direct employees of the Company. They might have been contractors' men. So, there is no relationship of "master and servant" between the Company and the present petitioners, and consequently the section 33 of the Act is not attracted to this case. The application under the section 33A which has been filed here is, therefore, liable to be rejected.

I accept the contention of the Company as correct. These workmen were never direct employees of this Company. So the section 33 of the Act is not applicable to this case. The case under the section 33A accordingly fails. I reject it.

The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under Government order No. 2163Dis./D/7L-29(A)/53, dated 13th June 1953.

AWARD.

It is the contention of the petitioner that he was served with a charge-sheet on 22nd September 1953 for having assaulted the senior Labour Officer of the said Mill on 18th September 1953 at 4-40 p.m. outside the Mill premises. He pleads alibi and says that he was attending the Union meeting on that day between 4-35 p.m. and 6-30 p.m. As the disciplinary measure was taken without the previous permission of the Tribunal in writing before whom the main case was then pending, the section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act is said to have been violated. So under the section 33A of the Act the order of the Company is liable to be vacated.

The Company, on the other hand, contends that the application is not maintainable in law. No final order has yet been passed in this respect. The Company has filed a petition under the section 33 of the Act for permission of the Tribunal to dismiss him. On the merit, the Company contends that the applicant along with other workers criminally assaulted Shri K. K. Mookerji, the senior Mill Labour Officer, on the 18th September 1953, at about 4-40 p.m. when he was proceeding home after Mill hours. This act is subversive of discipline under the Standing Orders of the Company. The Company gave him a charge-sheet and had his explanation when after a full enquiry it passed the following order:—

> "After full enquiry my decision is that you should be dismissed but until the permission of the Tribunal has been obtained you will continue to be suspended."

In view of the above it is abundantly clear that the applicant has only been tentatively placed under suspension pending final orders which will be passed after the permission of the Tribunal is obtained. Such provisional suspension pending final order cannot be construed as punishment by itself. If the permission sought for is not granted by the Tribunal under the section 33 of the Act, then the man will be entitled to be put into employment. So the present application under the section 33A is not maintainable in law, and as such it is rejected.

PRESENT:

SHRI G. PALIT, District Judge, Chairman, Fifth Industrial Tribunal.

Present for the Company : Shri J. K. Ghosh, Advocate of Messrs. Orr Dignum & Co., Solicitors.

1. The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under Government order No. 2163Dis./D/7L-29(A)/53, dated 13th June 1953.

AWARD.

2. It is the contention of the petitioner that he was a permanent durwan having put in about two years' service in this Company. He was charge-sheeted on 25th November 1953 for an alleged negligence of duty in his failure to catch hold of a thief who fled away with a bundle of bags. The Company is said to have done this out of grudge against the petitioner for his refusal to give evidence in a case of assault on the senior Labour Officer of the Mill pending before the Barrackpore Court. The petitioner has been dismissed without any enquiry as provided for under the Company's Standing Orders. As this has been done without the permission of the Tribunal in writing before whom the main case was then pending, this application under the section 33A of the Act has been filed.

The Company contends that the application does not lie because the dispute in the original order of reference was between the Company and its spinners only. The durwan, not being a spinner, cannot be taken as concerned in the said dispute. So his case under the section 33A cannot be maintained because the section 33 of the Act has not been contravened. On the merits, however, an enquiry was held by the Manager, and the petitioner was dismissed.

Before me a preliminary point of law has been mooted, viz., whether the application under the section 33A as has been filed is maintainable. Under the section 33(b) a worker who is concerned in the dispute, cannot be discharged or punished whether by dismissal or otherwise, except without the express permission in writing of the Tribunal before whom the main case is pending. It is admitted that in the present case no such permission under the section 33 was taken from the Tribunal before whom the main case was pending at the time. It is the contention of the Company that the original order of reference, dated 13th June 1953, of course, was between the present Company and their workmen, but by the corrigendum, dated the 29th July 1953, Government amended the order of reference and substituted the word "workmen" by the word "spinners". So the dispute was no longer a dispute between the Company and its workmen in general, but was one between the Company and its spinners only. As the durwan was not a spinner, he could not be taken as concerned in the main dispute. The learned Advocate of the Company drew the Tribunal's attention to several cases, both of the State Tribunals, and also of the Appellate Tribunal, to show that where the dispute is between one section concerned of the establishment and the Company, the employees of other sections cannot be said to be interested in the said dispute. This proposition is difficult of acceptance generally. It can very well be that the dispute between one section concerned and the Company can very well develop and be espoused by the people of the entire concern. In that case all the employees of the concern, irrespective of the workers who had started the dispute, will be taken as concerned in the dispute. So the entire matter will hinge upon the fact whether the dispute was confined all along to one section of workers, in one part of the establishment, or it spread over to all workers in the entire establishment. Upon that the result will depend. This will be a matter of construction with an eye to evidence and circumstances of each particular case. Here I find that the original order of reference was with regard to a dispute between the Company and its "workmen". So the Tribunal can very well be justified in thinking that the dispute was a collective one between the Company on the one hand, and "all the employees" on the other. Simply because in the schedule the matter of the Spinning Department was mooted, all that can be supposed is that the subject-matter was originally like that. But the limited dispute ultimately developed and embraced in its fold all the workmen. So if the original order of reference had stood, no matter what the subject-matter in the schedule was, I should have thought that the present employee was concerned in the dispute. But the matter took a different complexion all together in view of the corrigendum, dated 29th July 1953. There the word "workmen" was substituted by the word "spinners". Had it been an amendment, it would not have gone far enough, because an amendment is hardly retrospective in its operation. It ordinarily takes effect from the date of the amendment. A dispute which was collective in nature, cannot be transformed merely by an amendment so as to defeat the existing right. But a corrigendum is of a different nature. Its scope is more extensive. The construction here would be that the dispute was between the Company and its spinners not only on the 29th July 1953, but it should be supposed to have been so since the origin of the dispute and even now. That being the position, I must find that the present employee, being a durwan, and not a spinner, cannot be taken, prima facie, as interested in the dispute unless by evidence it is otherwise established. But here no evidence has been adduced. The original order of reference merely shows that the Union merely represented the workers. It does not show that the Union did take up the dispute and fought the Company on behalf of all the workers. Here the subject-matter would be significant. If the subject-matter was one of bonus, or gratuity, or Provident Fund, or concerning lock-out or strike, it could be supposed that what the Union was fighting for was a matter where all the employees are concerned. But here the subject-matter is strictly confined to the spinners. So it cannot be said that the Union was fighting with the Company on behalf of all workmen including the spinners. A wide construction so as to embrace all workmen cannot be given in view of the limited character of the order of reference. Construction in such cases is based on the section 18 of the Industrial Disputes Act. Even in the section 18(d) we get mention of "all persons who were employed in the establishment or part of the establishment, as the case may be, to which the dispute relates on the date of the dispute". So, it is clear that part of the establishment can very well form the base of the dispute. It can be very well limited to that. So, here the Spinners' Section only was involved. The dispute did not go beyond its limits. So the durwan in question cannot be said to be concerned in the dispute. His case is not attracted under the section 33 of the Act. As such the section 33A of the Act cannot be invoked by him. It is liable to be rejected on this preliminary point of law. I reject it accordingly. No order for costs. The preliminary point was taken up at the instance of both the parties. So, I do not go into the merit of the case.

1. The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under Government orders Nos. 3274Dis./D/11L-234/52, dated 26th November 1952 and 2331Dis./D/11L-13/53, dated 29th June 1953.

2. It is the contention of the petitioners, viz., Budhan and 24 others, that they were dismissed by the Company with effect from the 22nd January 1953 without the express permission of the Tribunal in writing when the main case was pending before the Tribunal. So the section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act is said to have been violated. They claim reinstatement.

The Company, on the other hand, contends that the section 33 is not attracted in this case because there exists no relationship of "master and servant" between the Company and the men employed by Sirdars. This position was accepted in the award of this Tribunal published in the Calcutta Gazette, dated the 2nd April 1953.

I accept the contention of the Company as correct. These applicants were Sirdar's men. They do not have any direct relationship of "master and servant" with this Company. Ramdhoni Sirdar's contract with the Company had ended on the 12th December 1952. If these employees have any grievance, that must be against the said Sirdar, and not against the Company. So the section 33 of the Act is not attracted to this case. As a matter of that this application under the section 33A is liable to be rejected, and I do it accordingly.

In the matter of a complaint under the section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, filed by one Imurdeo, acting under the Sirdar Haricharan, against Messrs. Bird & Co., Southern Section.

PRESENT:

SHRI G. PALIT, District Judge, Chairman, Fifth Industrial Tribunal

Present for the Company: Shri S. C. Sen, Advocate of Messrs. Orr Dignum & Co., Solicitors.

1. The original reference out of which this case has arisen was made under Government orders Nos. 3274Dis./D/11L-234/52, dated 26th November 1952 and 2331Dis./D/11L-13/53, dated 29th June 1953.

AWARD.

2. It is the contention of the petitioner that he has been dismissed by the Company with effect from the 12th February 1953 without having obtained the previous permission in writing of the Tribunal before whom the main case was pending at the time. So the section 33 of the Act is said to have been violated. He prays for reinstatement.

The Company resists the claim on the ground that he was a Sirdar's man, and not a direct employee under the Company, and as such there is no relationship of "master and servant" between the Company and the said workman. The section 33 of the Act has thus not been attracted to this case. So the application under the section 33A is out of place.

I accept the Company's contention I have already found in my previous award published in the Calcutta Gazette, dated the 2nd April 1953, that there is no relationship of "master and servant" between this Company and the workmen employed by Sirdars under them. In view of this, the section 33 of the Act is not attracted here. So the present application under the section 33A is liable to be rejected. I reject it accordingly.

DECISION.

This appeal is directed against an award made by the First Industrial Tribunal, Government of West Bengal, in a dispute between Messrs. Cooke & Kelvey, Ltd., and their workmen and referred to it by order No. 3202Dis./D/III-212/52, dated 18th November 1952.

The following 12 issues were referred to the Tribunal:—

(1) Provident Fund.
(2) Leave: Privilege leave, sick leave and casual leave.
(3) Rules regarding service conditions.
(4) Bonus.
(5) Medical aid.
(6) Rate of payment for overtime.
(7) Dearness allowance.
(8) Wage: Piece-rated workers, distribution of work among piece-rated workers.
(9) Method of calculating wages.
(10) Maintenance of rate books.
(11) Gratuity.
(12) Pay and scale of pay.

The employers are a reputed firm of watch-makers, jewellers and silver-smiths and hereafter they will be referred to as the company. The company bears he names of the two men who started this business about a century ago. Subsequently it changed hands and in the year 1846 Shri Kishorilal Khemka purchased the concern, the assets and good-will of the firm and he converted it into a public limited company. On account of the existence of a power driven polishing machine this may be taken to be a factory governed by the Indian Factories Act. After the formation of a Union in 1952 certain disputes were raised which were referred to the Tribunal. In this company there is a class of workmen who are paid by the company for their work done, and the Union claims that they are piece-rated workers of the company and the company on the other hand contends that they are mere petty independent contractors, who do not come within the category of workmen as defined under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. Though the Union claimed reliefs for all these men under all the issues before the industrial tribunal but the Tribunal dismissed all these claims on the ground that these men were mere contractors and they were not "workmen" within the meaning of the Industrial Disputes Act. Consequently the lower Tribunal was unable to afford any relief to them. An appeal is preferred from this award.

Though the present appeal covers all the issues that were for consideration before the lower Tribunal, Shri D. L. Sen Gupta. the learned advocate for the appellants has confined his submissions to only three of them. He mainly attacked the finding of the Tribunal that the class of persons whom the Union regard as piece raters were mere contractors. He contends that if he succeeded in showing that they come within the category of "workmen" under the Industrial Disputes Act, they would be entitled to the various benefits claimed by the Union for them. Over and above this contention he confined his appeal to issues Nos. 5 and 12 only.

Therefore the principal point for decision before us is whether these persons who are regarded as piece raters by the Union are really "workmen" within the meaning of the Industrial Disputes Act. They are 29 in number and are named in Annexure B of the written statement of the Company. They are watch repairers and are gold and silver-smiths.

When a question arises whether a person is a piece rater or a contractor, it must be decided on a number of facts, entire picture of their engagement, method of work, conduct during work, mode of payment, in short the whole relationship between the employer and the employee will have to be examined carefully. A misdescription in any document or in a document of engagement of a servant, as a contractor will not make him a contractor nor a mere description of a contractor as an employee will make him so. The decision of this question will depend on the determination of the incidents of contract or service as the case may be.

In the first place it is pointed out on behalf of the Union that these piece raters were allowed the statutory leave under the Factories Act and therefore they would be considered to be employees of the Company. Under the Factories Act, a certain number of days is allowed as statutory holidays with pay. It appears from the evidence that when these persons were allowed leave or were not allowed to work they were not paid anything for the period of the forced absence. It practically amounts to this that when the factory remained closed, they were not allowed to work.

P.W. 1, Santosh Kumar Mullick, the only witness for the Union stated in his evidence that the piece raters had fixed working hours, i.e., hours of attendance, arrival and departure. This evidence clearly indicates that they did not maintain the same working hours as are observed by the other persons who are admittedly factory workers. It further transpires that their attendance is only noted by the management but that no record is kept of the hours of arrivals and departure in their cases. Laxity in attendance is thus allowed.

This witness for the Union further stated that these piece raters were subject to the discipline of the Company. This was neither elaborated in evidence-in-chief nor cross-examination was directed to clear up the matter. Not a single instance was cited to support this opinion of that witness. We do not get a single instance even in cases of long years of service when any punishment or warning was given to any one of these persons. The only thing that emerges is that the witness says that they are taken to task if the work was executed badly and this will happen equally even when the work is done under a contract by a contractor. There is no evidence that there was any interference or direction by the management in the process or carrying out of the work.

It has been argued that formerly piece rated workers were paid certain bonus which would not have been done if they had not been employees. But it appears from the evidence that they were formerly paid a lump sum as bonus which was not based either on earnings or on any principle which may be acceptable as a test of employment other than that of a mere contractor.

It was further pointed out that the payment to these persons were made at the end of a month like time rated workers and was not made from time to time at the end of the execution of each job. It appears that the accounts of these workmen are maintained for each person showing their separate monthly earnings and that the payments are made at the end of the month. So long as the payment is made in accordance with the contractors' remuneration there is nothing in the practice of monthly payment to bring them within the category of employees other than contractors.

P.W. 1, Santosh admitted that while the time rated workers enjoyed paid sick-leave, casual leave and holidays, the piece rated workers were not allowed any of these benefits. If the piece rated workers were also of the same category there is no reason for this discrimination, which is of an important nature for this enquiry. With regard to the amount of the remuneration for the work done the Company has a schedule of rates for standard work. As tastes differ with individuals, and different kind of work is required by different clients therefore it cannot reasonably be expected that only a certain kind or standard of work can be adhered to in all cases, and it is not possible to compare the work to a common standard to a large extent. Whenever work of a kind not provided for is to be done the work to be done is explained and indicated to ascertain what the worker would charge for executing that work. He puts in his terms or "quotation" in writing and he is paid on the basis of his quotation. The Company has lately levied a discount of 10 per cent. on these quotations. We are of opinion that the liberty of demanding a certain payment on these occasions is an important factor, which taken with other factors has a conclusive bearing in determining the relationship of the employer and employee.

Another factor which is very important is this that each worker is allowed to bring any number of assistants or workers to help him. Santosh in his evidence said "The helpers are paid by the workmen who bring them, and not by the Company. Company does not object that the piece rate workmen bring helpers. On the contrary, it encourages them to bring helpers for the purpose of greater work being done". The witness tried to repair the damage thus done in his re-examination when he said that the helpers came to learn work. Even if this is true it would amount to this that the workers are allowed to teach work, with the materials of the Company, and that the employees pay for this work from their share of remuneration for having the satisfaction of teaching the work at their own costs. It is difficult to believe this. This statement of the witness does not amount to explanation of his earlier statement, and on the contrary it conflicts and contradicts the earlier statement that the helpers were brought for greater out-put of work. To what extent a piece rater may earn in this Company is witnessed from the case of Sudhir Karmakar who in the year 1951-52, earned Rs. 18,258, with the help of similar assistants, who he employed to execute the work entrusted to him by the Company.

Another fact which emerges from the facts of the case is that they are not prevented from taking up and executing works personally without obtaining them through this Company.

These piece-rated workers work at the Company or at places where they like, they are required to attend but strict timing with regard to their arrival and departure is not adhered to, they are not paid when they are not at work, their monthly remuneration is the sum total of the amounts provided or contracted to by the Company for different work they have done during the month. A record is kept of the work done and the amount to be paid for work done. There are no leave and other rules, or retiring benefits for them. They are never paid when not at work, call it leave or whatever you like. They are at liberty to employ as many assistants or workers with them taken from outside the Company as they like, as sometimes a worker earns as much as 1,800 annually for work done by such assistance. When on the top of all this we find that in spite of the fact that some of these men are with the Company for more than 20 years, not one instance has been cited, that they were rebuked or punished for absence, or late arrival or early departure, the only possible conclusion is that they are independent workers, as contractors, of course subject to attendance, at the Company. There is nothing surprising or unusual in their liability to attend regularly as contractors in view of the fact that their presence will be required at all times when circumstances need the resources of the Company. The contractors or workers must be there to state their remuneration and get work for themselves on that basis. The Company is also benefitted by their presence as the Company is in that case in a position to state the required remuneration to their clients and customers. Their attendance is in mutual interest and they are not paid on their attendance but on the basis of the rates settled in each case, or according to the standard rates agreed upon in each case. Now we have to see whether this class of worker will fall within the definition of a "workman" and can be taken to have been employed for the purpose.

Under section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, a workman must be an employee, in an industry to do skilled or unskilled work, for hire or reward; and the work may be manual or clerical. As pointed out in the case of Rambhola Sugar Mills 1952 (1), LLJ 810—the designation together with the nature of work done should be considered in ascertaining if a person is a workman or not. The test laid down by McCardie. J. in Performing Rights' Society vs. Mitchell and Booker, Ltd. (1924), 1 K.B. 762, has been followed in a number of cases. A servant is a person subject to the command of his master as to the manner in which he shall do his work. An independent contractor is one who undertakes to produce a given result, but so that in the actual execution of the work he is not under the order and control of the persons for whom he does it. Here we do not find that the employer does exercise any control. He only looks to if the article has been made to specification. These tests have been applied by a Bench of this Tribunal in the case of New Mahalaxmi Silk Mills, Ltd., 1954, II LLJ. 633. Whatever may be the general law in the subject of master and servant we will have to see only if the "workman" is one as defined under section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act. If he does the Act will apply to the case, although different tests may be applied to see whether the requirements of the definition is covered or not; and only to that extent. It appears to us that in the case of an employee falling within the definition it is the man who is engaged to perform certain services while in the case of a contractor, emphasis is not on the engagement of the service but only on a certain work to be executed to be done according to the requirements or specifications. While in the case of the former, personal service becomes essential, while in the case of the latter, the personal service becomes a secondary matter. In the case under disposal the Company does not concentrate on the personal services it allows the work to be executed by one with the help of others not connected with the Company. The Company is only interested when a worker contractor is fit for the excellence or particular quality of his work, the importance is attached to the work to be done.

Their hours of attendance is not strictly enforced, they do not get leave, there is no evidence of any punishment being inflicted on any body. There is no evidence of any direction or control in the manner of the execution of the works. All these factors indicate that they are contractors and not employees. The payment at the end of the month does not help any party. There are monthly ledgers for each individual and totals are carried to the last page against the name of each individual. The heading on the top of the page is "pay" for the month. The use of the expression "pay" is inappropriate and does not affect the conclusions thus arrived at. If the case is otherwise and the nature of the services different the use of a particular term will not necessarily place one within the category covered by that term.

We agree with the learned lower Tribunal that these persons are independent contractors and are not employees and are not therefore "workmen" within the definition of the Industrial Disputes Act, and therefore are not entitled to any relief or any award in their favour.

At a certain stage durnig the pendency of this appeal an application was made by some of these contractors to intimate to the Tribunal that they do not want to proceed with this appeal. The Union also in reply filed an application signed by some of these contractors saying that they really wanted to proceed with the appeal. Some names are common to both these applications. In view of our finding that they are not workmen within the meaning of the Industrial Disputes Act it is not at all necessary to consider these two applications.

The second point argued by the learned advocate for the appellant was issue No. 5. The claim was for medical relief or, in the alternative, for grant of money. The learned Tribunal rejected the claims on the ground that the finances of the Company did not permit providing this facility to the workers. The learned Tribunal further observed that it was the duty of the State to provide for medical facilities and that an individual employer may be made liable to this, when the factory is opened in a place where Government aided hospitals and dispensaries are not available. We consider that the reasons given by the lower Tribunal for refusing the relief are cogent and we do not find sufficient reasons to interfere.

The next point argued related to issue No. 12 about pay and scales of pay of those who fall within the category of the workmen of the Company. Though the House of Cooke & Kelvey is an ancient one but the present concern has been reconstituted recently and is a new one and it has not been long enough on its legs. In one year it made a nominal profit and there was loss in another year. Granting of pay scales in such a concern is hardly serviceable and is not appropriate. The question of pay scales arises and becomes necessary when an industry stabilises itself. The learned Tribunal below, on a consideration of these factors, did not allow any time scale but in spite of it it has rightly increased the wages of the workmen to some extent. It fixed Rs. 30 as minimum basic pay and Rs. 25 as Dearness Allowance. It further made an increase of Rs. 5 to all. Thus it appears that the workmen of the lowest grade get Rs. 55 covering wages and dearness allowance. We must take into account the nature of business and the locality in which it is situated and considering all these aspects we feel the wages of the workmen, who will get Rs. 55 as total emoluments, require some consideration. We therefore decide that in addition to what has been done by the lower Tribunal, those people, whose emoluments still remain below Rs. 60, shall get an increment in basic wages to increase the minimum total emoluments to Rs. 60.

In the result the appeal is allowed in part to the extent abovementioned but the parties shall bear their own cost.

The India Electric Works Limited, Diamond Harbour Road, Calcutta-34, and their workmen represented by the India Electric Works Employees' Association, 35/B, Wellington Street, Calcutta, regarding the matters specified in the schedule thereto was referred for adjudication to the Sixth Industrial Tribunal;

And whereas the said Sixth Industrial Tribunal has submitted to the State Government its interim award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said interim award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of an application for interim relief filed by India Electric Works Employees' Association, 35/B, Wellington Street, Calcutta, against Messrs. India Electric Works, Limited, Diamond Harbour Road, Calcutta-34.

BEFORE THE SIXTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL, CALCUTTA.

PRESENT:

SHRI SAILESH SENGUPTA, Judge, Sixth Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances :

For the Association: Shri D. L. Sengupta, M.A., LL.B. (Advocate), Vice-President, instructed by Shri J. N. Haldar, Vice-President, and Shri Iswari Prosad Muhury, Secretary.

For the Company: Shri K. P. Mookherjee, Solicitor of Messrs. Khaitan & Co., Solicitors.

The original reference out of which this present application for interim relief has arisen was made under Government Order No. 2641Dis./D/10L-99/53, dated the 13th June 1955.

This is an application filed by the Employees' Association for interim relief. The Company was represented by a lawyer, to whose appearance the Association objected. For the purpose of the hearing of the present application the Association kept the objection in abeyance and agreed to the Company's case being placed before the Tribunal by the lawyer. The objection was not waived so far as the main case is concerned.

Interim Award.

Eleven workmen who were originally appointed by the Company to serve in their grain shop were laid-off with effect from the 3rd November 1954 when, food control order being finally withdrawn, the Company had to close the grain shop. The Association made out the case in the written statement that the lay-off was unwarranted. The affected workers are, in its view, entitled to reinstatement with full wages for the entire period of lay-off. Pending the disposal of the reference case the Association prayed for interim relief. The Company has already paid 50 per cent. of the basic wages and dearness allowance for 45 days by way of lay-off compensation. The claim for interim relief was resisted on the ground that no further compensation could be due under the law.

The case for the workers as pressed before the Tribunal now is that in the event of the finding being arrived at that the lay-off was without justification each and every one of these men would be entitled to recover full wages and allowances for the entire period commencing from 3rd of November 1954. If, on the other hand, the Tribunal came to the conclusion that the lay-off was in order, the workers would still be entitled to further lay-off compensation by virtue of proviso (b) of section 25(c) of the Industrial Disputes Act. Reference was made in support of this contention to the case reported in 1954, L.A.C., page 871. In that case their Lordships had before them an application for permission to retrench workers who had been previously laid-off. The lay-off was for a continuous period extending over 45 days. While granting permission to retrench their Lordships imposed conditions that the employer must pay half the basic wages and dearness allowance for the whole period, from the date of lay-off to the date of retrenchment less sums already paid as lay-off compensation. Though the precise question falling for determination was whether permission to retrench should be granted, their Lordships discussed the true implication of proviso (b) of section 25(C). Their Lordships re-pelled the company's contention that proviso (b) was intended to operate in the case of successive periods of lay-off. This decision is no doubt favourable to the workers. In deciding the application for interim relief I am not however prepared to pronounce any final opinion as to the true purport of proviso (b) to section 25(C) as I cannot at this stage pre-judge the very issue that I shall be called upon to decide at the final hearing. The learned gentleman appearing for the Association urged that these workers are on the verge of starvation as since the date of lay-off they have been paid half wages for 45 days. In these hard days when the struggle for existence has hit the summit, the workers cannot pick up casual jobs to tide over the period of lay-off which has unfortunately in this case, been prolonged indefinitely. One cannot shut ones eyes to the difficulties to which the laid-off workers have been exposed. Every effort must be made to ameliorate their lot; but the Tribunal must guard against taking any action which would introduce complications in the final award. A question may arise how the Company can recoup money paid by way of interim relief if the final award is adverse to the workers, that is to say, if it is found that the lay-off was justified and the compensation already paid fully satisfied the demands that could lawfully be made. The payments directed by the Tribunal by way of interim relief would then be refundable. There is however no difficulty in the instant case since these eleven workers were all permanent employees enjoying benefits of the provident fund. All of them have put in more than one year's continuous service. The Company has in its custody the provident fund money which may be drawn upon to recover the amounts that may be paid as interim relief, if in the final event the workers fail to obtain any relief. There is the further aspect that on retrenchment being made in future, retrenchment relief will also be exigible. The Company will be able to obtain restitution out of the retrenchment relief compensation. Without deciding at present whether the laid-off workers are entitled to recover lay-off relief in addition to what has voluntarily been paid by the Company, I direct that two months basic wages and dearness allowances must be paid to each of these eleven men as interim relief, so that their distress during the period of involuntary unemployment may be relieved to some extent. Payment must be made by the 1st week of August 1955.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In a city like Calcutta, sports and games deserve encouragement and support from Government. Government propose to set up three bodies to be known as the Sports Association, the Sports Control Committee and the Sports Board. The Sports Association will be the parent body, having general supervision. The Sports Control Committee will be the executive committee organizing sports and games. The Sports Board will be in charge of the finances and properties of the Association and will have power, with the previous approval of the State Government, to raise loans. It is believed that the formation of these bodies will prove helpful in putting sports and games in Calcutta on a sounder footing and also in providing Calcutta with its long sought for stadium.

The Bill has been prepared with these objects in view.

Conditions.

(1) The holder of any such license shall not do, in pursuance thereof, in, upon, through or across, West Bengal or with any person therein, anything, not specially authorised in writing in that behalf by the Excise Commissioner, West Bengal, except—

(i) clearing from the Customs bond at Calcutta, liquor imported under a valid Import Trade Control license;

(ii) buying of, and at the licensed premises of, the holder of a license for the sale of foreign liquor to other licensed dealers granted under the Bengal Excise Act, 1909, such foreign liquor as he may require bona fide for sale from his own State to buyers in West Bengal;

(iii) selling foreign liquor to buyers in West Bengal from his own State in accordance with the terms and conditions of such license.

(2) All clearances and purchases, hereby authorised shall be against appropriate Import Permits where necessary and under appropriate transport or export passes showing, in each case, the number of cases or packages covered thereby, special markings for identification of such cases or packages, the Railway, Steamer or Air Service Station at which the consignment is to be booked and to be taken delivery of, and if the movement of the goods involved carriage otherwise than by a Railway or Steamer or Air Service over a distance exceeding five miles at any point, description of the vehicle (including its registration No. if any) in which the consignment will move, as well as the name and address of the person in charge of that vehicle and, unless such pass itself contains the particulars, it shall be accompanied by a copy of the connected invoice or bill in which shall be shown, brand by brand, the kind and the quantity of the liquor covered thereby.

(3) All liquor cleared or bought as above shall be placed with a Railway, Steamer or Air Carriage Service at a station nearest, so far as possible, to the Calcutta Customs House or the licensed premises of the seller in West Bengal, as the case may be, for carriage to a station nearest, so far as possible to the premises of the holder of such license and on delivery at such station shall be taken directly to such premises.

(4) The bulk of a consignment referred to in paragraph (2) shall not be broken in transit, nor shall it or any part of it be rebooked to any new station or otherwise diverted in any manner from its original destination, nor shall such consignment after it comes out of the Customs bond or the premises of the seller in West Bengal and before it reaches the premises of the holder of such license be stored on the way at any place other than at a godown belonging to, and in the custody of, the carrier Railway, Steamer or Air Service, except under a special endorsement of the Collector on the pass authorising such storage.

(5) A report of arrival of each consignment shall be made as soon as possible thereafter to the Chief Officer in charge of the Excise Administration of the district of destination by the holder of such license or if such Chief Officer so directs, to an officer subordinate to him, stating the description by brand of each kind of liquor and the quantity thereof received, as per the connected pass and invoice or bill, if any, and the consignment shall not be opened until it has been examined by or on behalf of such Chief Officer or his subordinate, as the case may be unless such examination be dispensed with by an order in writing by such Chief Officer on the ground that there are other satisfactory means of verification of the actual arrival of the consignment.

(6) Within six weeks of the arrival of each consignment a certificate, signed or countersigned by the Chief Officer in charge of the Excise Administration of the district of destination, or by a gazetted subordinate officer authorised by him in this behalf, that the consignment has actually reached the destination, shall be furnished by the holder of such license to the officer or firm that issued the pass covering the consignment. The certificate shall be endorsed on a true copy of the pass, and in case of any difference between the liquor that has actually arrived and the liquor that has been shown in the pass the certificate shall also record the particulars of the difference found and the explanation if any, therefor.

(7) In case of any short receipt of liquor at the destination the holder of such license shall be liable to pay on the quantity that may be found short, in the case of foreign liquor made in India, both excise duty and gallonage fee at the West Bengal "off" rates, and, in the case of imported foreign liquor, only gallonage fee at the West Bengal "off" rates.

In the matter of an appeal against the award, dated 22nd October 1952, made by Shri S. C. Mukherjee, Judge, The Fourth Industrial Tribunal, West Bengal, in respect of an industrial dispute between the above parties.

Dated 12th April 1955.

PRESENT:

SHRI L. K. JHA, President.

SHRI K. SIDDIKI, Member.

For the respondents: Shri B. P. Khaitan, Bar.-at-Law, with Shri S. K. Bose, Bar-at-Law, and Shri S. C. Sen, Advocate.

State: West Bengal.

Industry: Textile.

In this appeal we are concerned with an industrial dispute which is now confined to 230 workmen who are the appellants before us, and the Swadeshi Industries Limited, Panihati, 24-Parganas (hereinafter referred to as the Company), in which they were employed.

The Company is a manufacturing concern and had on its muster roll about 800 workmen who formed themselves into a union some time in 1949, under the name of the Swadeshi Industries Mazdoor Union (hereinafter called the Mazdoor Union), which was duly registered under the Trade Unions Act XIV of 1926.

On 26th February 1951 the Mazdoor Union submitted to the Company a charter of demands putting forward a number of claims, including the revision of wage structure. But the company, by its letter, dated 3rd March 1951, addressed to the union, refused to consider any of the demands except with regard to certain minor items, such as, appointment of compounder, construction of dispensary, and latrines, etc. The union was not prepared to abandon its demands and therefore it again requested the company by a letter, dated 22nd March 1951, to reconsider the matter. But the company turned down the demands and pleaded loss on account of the "go-slow" policy adopted by the workmen. On the 11th of April 1951, therefore, the union gave a strike notice to the company with an ultimatum that if their demands were not fulfilled within 14 days thereof, they would be reluctantly compelled to go on strike. Even after this notice of strike the company did not enter into any negotiation with the union for settling the dispute amicably. The workmen, therefore, launched a general strike with effect from the 27th of April 1951 and, thereafter, a lockout was also declared by the company.

During the continuance of the strike the Conciliation Officer and the Labour Commissioner tried to bring about an amicable settlement but they failed in their efforts and shortly afterwards the company, by a general notice, dated 24th May 1951, terminated the services of the workmen on the ground that the strike was illegal and the employees participating in the strike had committed various illegal acts and had prevented people from going to and coming out of the factory under threats of violence. Notwithstanding the termination of their services, the strikers persisted in their activities. On the 8th June 1951, however, the management issued a general notice that the company had decided to re-open its work from the 9th June 1951 and "to sympathetically consider taking back as many of the old employees as possible". But it appears that none of the strikers re-joined their duties. Thereafter, on the 17th June 1951, the management again issued a similar notice intimating to the workers that the factory would re-open from the 18th June. The factory actually re-opened on the 18th June 1951 and the majority of the workmen were re-employed. But in view of the conditions laid down in the notices of the 8th and 17th June 1951 the appellants did not join. Thereafter, the Government of West Bengal by order No. 4659-Lab., dated 25th of July 1951, referred the dispute between the company and its workmen represented by the Mazdoor Union, to the 4th Industrial Tribunal, formulating the following seven issues for adjudication:—

"(1) Basic pay.

(2) Dearness allowance.

(3) Bonus.

(4) Provident Fund and Gratuity.

(5) Leave and Holidays.

(6) Dismissal of the workers and the relief they are entitled to.

(7) Are the workers entitled to any pay and allowance for the strike period?"

During the pendency of the proceedings before the Tribunal, Governor of West Bengal, in exercise of the power conferred upon him by sub-section (3) of section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act issued an order on the 3rd August 1951 prohibiting continuance of the strike or lockout in the company. Thereafter, the lockout was not lifted by the company but the Mazdoor Union wrote a letter to the Manager of the Company, on behalf of the workmen on the 9th August 1951, with copies to the Ministry of Labour and the Labour Commissioner offering to join en block provided the strikers in police custody and behind prison bars were bailed out and the lockout lifted in its entirety. The company as it appears from the evidence of Shri Virendra Kumar Sharma (O.P.W. 1) did not reply to this letter, nor did the Government take any step for the release of the workmen who were in police custody or behind prison bars. In these circumstances, the appellants did not join and the proceedings before the Tribunal accordingly continued and the Mazdoor Union filed written statement on behalf of the workmen on the 3rd September 1951 and the Company filed its own on the 6th November 1951.

It appears that on 20th December 1951, the registration of the Mazdoor Union was cancelled and thereafter on the 14th January 1952 the Government of West Bengal issued another notification, amending the original reference, dated the 25th July 1951 and substituting "Swadeshi Industries Sramik Union" for "Swadeshi Industries Mazdoor Union". After the original reference had been amended, the workmen, considering themselves unsafe to be represented by unknown representatives, filed a petition before the Tribunal, signed by eight workmen, praying for permission to be represented by the eight signatories to the petition and the prayer was allowed.

After the Sramik Union was brought on the record it filed its written statement on the 16th February 1952 criticising the motive and action of the Mazdoor Union in launching the strike and thereafter, on the 28th April 1952, it filed a petition of compromise, abandoning the claim for increase in the basic wages and dearness allowance and one of the terms of settlement was that, "The workers who had been dismissed and not re-employed so far as a result of the strike, shall not be entitled to reinstatement or any other relief". The Tribunal gave effect to the terms of the compromise so far as the workmen, who had already been re-employed, were concerned, and took up the case of the appellants, mentioned in Annexure "B" to the award, and proceeded to deal with the legality and priority of the termination of their services.

It has found that the appellants were employed in the Cotton Textile Section of the company, which was declared to be a public utility service and has held:—

(1) that the strike in which the appellants participated, was illegal and unjustified;

(2) that the strikers were guilty of unfair labour practice; and

(3) that the management had not terminated their services vindictively or capriciously.

Accordingly, the Tribunal refused to order reinstatement of the appellants or to award them any compensation on the sole ground that for mere participation by the appellants in an illegal strike, the management was justified in terminating their services, by a notice, without framing chargesheets and holding managerial enquiry, and in this view of the matter, the Tribunal did not proceed to decide issues 1 to 5. The appeal is directed against this award.

A preliminary objection has been raised by Shri S. C. Sen, appearing on behalf of the company, as to the maintainability of the appeal on the following grounds:—

(1) That the appeal is not by the aggrieved party; and

(2) that even if it be assumed that some of the workmen are appellants, there is defect of necessary parties in that all the workmen who were parties to the collective dispute, have not been impleaded either as appellants or respondents.

There is no substance in any of these contention. The order of reference shows that the workmen were parties to the dispute and were represented by the Mazdoor Union, and thereafter, by the Sramik Union, by a subsequent order of amendment. The aggrieved workers have preferred this appeal and have signed the Memorandum of Appeal. The workmen, governed by the compromise, have not been impleaded. They were, in our view, not aggrieved by the award and were not therefore necessary parties. They would not be in any way, adversely affected by the result of the appeal. The point is directly covered by the decision of this Tribunal in the case of Punjab National Bank, Ltd., Delhi (I.A.C. 1953, page 8) where the proposition of law was laid down in these words:—

"In our opinion, it is not necessary that all and every workman who raises a dispute in a collective form should be made parties to an appeal either 'no nominee' or through a representative body. It would be sufficient if some of them are appellants and the appeal would not be regarded as defectively constituted so as to be dismissed on the ground that other workmen who were collectively appellants or on the ground that other workmen who were collectively interested in the dispute with those who had filed the appeal or on whose behalf the appeal has been filed had not joined in the appeal or are not before the Appellate Tribunal".

With this view we entirely agree. The preliminary objection must therefore, be over-ruled.

The correctness of the decision of the Tribunal has been challenged by Shri Acharyya appearing on behalf of the appellant and his contention is:—

(1) that the strike was legal, justified, and a bona fide one,

(2) that the management was guilty of victimisation and unfair labour practice in dismissing the appellants; and

(3) that even if the strike be held to be illegal, the dismissal of the appellants without chargesheet and managerial enquiry and in the absence of any proof of specific acts of violence on their part was arbitrary and unjustified; the tribunal, therefore, erred in refusing their reinstatement for mere participation in an illegal strike.

The principal point for consideration, therefore, is whether the strike is illegal. The Tribunal has held the strike illegal by reason of the contravention of the provisions of sub-sections (1) (a) and (1) (d) of section 22 and sub-section (3) of section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, inasmuch as, in its opinion, the appellants were employed in the cotton textile section of the Company which has been admittedly declared to be a public utility service. Shri Acharya concedes that no notice, as required by sub-section 1 of section 22 of the Industrial Disputes Act, was given to the company before the strike was launched. But his argument is that the Tribunal has wrongly held that the appellants were employed in the cotton textile section of the company. The contention is not without force.

The company has three units, namely, (1) a cotton and silk weaving mill; (2) a bakelite factory and (3) a steel re-rolling mill, employing about 600 workmen in the silk and cotton section, 100 or 150 in the bakelite factory and 50 in the steel re-rolling mill. The company does not allege that any of the workmen, who participated in the strike, was exclusively or principally employed in the cotton textile section. Its case, as set out in its written statement, is that the cotton and silk departments form one unit in which the workers were employed without fixed assignment of duty. The allegation of the Mazdoor Union in its written statement, which was adopted by the appellants, on the other hand, was that out of 500 workmen employed in the cotton and silk section, only 30 workmen were required to work in the cotton section but their names were not mentioned. Although the company did not controvert this allegation, the Tribunal accepted the company's case that the workmen were employed in the silk and the cotton section and it has recorded its finding in these words:—

"I am inclined to accept the contention of the management that most of the workers were capable of working in cotton loom as well as silk loom and they were made to work on those looms according to the requirements of the company".

The contention of Shri Acharya is that there is no evidence to support the finding that the workmen (including the appellants) were made to work on the cotton looms as well as silk looms according to the requirements of the company. In our opinion this contention must prevail. Mere capacity of the workmen to work on the looms of the two sections, where there was no fixed assignment of duty, would not attract the mischief of sub-section (1) of section 22 of the Act. Shri Khaitan appearing for the company, was unable to place before us any evidence, oral or documentary, in support of the above finding of the Tribunal. We ourselves examined the evidence in the case and we failed to find anything in support of the Tribunal's finding.

Three witnesses have been examined by the company, namely, (1) Virendra Kumar Sarma (O.P.W. 1), the Assistant Manager of the company, (2) Ramjatan Shaw (O.P.W. 2), an employee of the company and (3) Mulkchand Sharma (O.P.W. 3), the Manager of the company, O.P.W. 3 was the Manager of the Mills since July 1951. One Shri B. Dutt was the Manager of this company when the strike commenced but he has not been examined. Of these witnesses, only O.P.W. 3 has stated that the workers can produce either silk or cotton textiles upon the same looms they do that according to the requirements. But none of these witnesses has stated that the appellants or any of them were actually employed in the cotton section, or even worked on the cotton looms before the strike commenced. Nor was our attention invited to any evidence to show that it was the condition of service of the appellants, employed in the silk section of the company, which, on its own case in the written statement, was mainly a silk manufacturing concern, that they were deemed to be employed in the cotton section.

Even assuming that there is no watertight compartment in the two departments of the mills and most of the workmen, employed in the silk section, also work on the cotton looms as and when required, that fact by itself would not bring the case within the mischief of sub-section (1) of section 22. In order to attract its application, it must be strictly proved that immediately before the strike commenced, the appellants were actually employed on the cotton looms. To hold otherwise, would be to bring the workmen employed in the silk section of the company, which is not a public utility service, within the mischief of this rule. We are, therefore, of opinion that the strike cannot be said to be illegal for want of notice under section 22(1) (a) of the Act, in the absence of any evidence that the appellants or any of the strikers were employed exclusively in the cotton section or were made to work in that section under the conditions of their service before the strike was launched. For the same reason the provisions of section 22(1)(d) cannot also be said to have been contravened. Moreover, even if it be assumed that the strike was in a public utility service, the provision of this sub-section cannot be said to have been contravened by reason of the pendency of a conciliation proceeding before the conciliation officer, inasmuch as, the strike was not commenced after notice, as contemplated by section 22 of the Act.

Lastly, the question is whether the strike can be said to be illegal by reason of its continuance after the Government of West Bengal issued order under section 10(3) of the Act, prohibiting the continuance of the strike. The contention put forward on behalf of the company is that even if the strike be not illegal by reason of contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1)(a) and (d) of section, 22 its continuance after the Government issued order under section 10(3), on the 3rd August 1951, rendered the strike illegal. The short answer to this argument is that the company had terminated the services of the appellants and other strikers by the general notice dated 24th May 1951, long before the order under section 19(3) was issued by the appropriate Government.

In our view, the company has failed to prove that the appellants were employed in a public utility service or worked in it when the strike began. The strike cannot, therefore, be said to be illegal on any of the grounds mentioned by the Tribunal.

Now the question arises whether the strike was justified and a bona fide one. On the materials placed before us, we cannot hold that the strike was unjustified or that the union was actuated by any mala fide motive in launching the strike. In this connection, we may state that in the year 1947 the Government of West Bengal constituted what is known as the Cotton Textile (General) Tribunal to decide the disputes between 36 cotton concerns of West Bengal and their workmen in respect of various matters including the wage structure. This company and its workmen were also included in the order of references. That Tribunal gave its award on the 28th July 1948 which was duly published in the official gazette by the order of the Governor dated 21st August 1948. On the 19th May 1949, however, this company and its workmen, represented by the Mazdoor Union, entered into an agreement whereby they agreed to be governed by the terms thereof and not by the award. Under the agreement the award of the said Tribunal ceased to be operative retrospectively with effect from the 1st of December 1948. Although this agreement was duly recorded, the Union's case is that the company did not implement items 10 and 11 thereof, which are in these terms:—

Item No. 10:—"The cases of clerks will be taken up in the month of June next, when the matters will be settled amicably by Shri Nabjyoti Burman, Shri S. R. Poddar, and Shri S. R. Biswas, Labour Officer, in a conference."

Item No. 11:—"The company shall introduce provident fund system within a year."

The company's case, on the other hand, is that all the items including items 10 and 11 of the agreement were duly implemented. From the evidence of P.W. 1, Secretary of the Union, it appears that the mediators held a conference in pursuance of the terms of the agreement with regard to the provident fund, was implemented in September 1950 but not within a year from the date of the agreement. These two items of the agreement were therefore not implemented. The Tribunal has, however, held that although the conference was held, the mediators submitted no reports. Its findings therefore is that:—

> "The fact that no report was made by the mediators goes to indicate that their opinion was unfavourable to the workers" and it has accordingly held that the terms had been properly implemented. We cannot agree with this finding, nor do we appreciate the reasons. The evidence clearly shows that the cases of clerks were not amicably settled by the mediators, nor was the condition with regard to provident fund complied with. With these facts in view, we cannot hold that in putting forward a charter of demands on the 26th February 1951, the Mazdoor Union acted with any mala fide motive. In spite of this on receipt of the charter of demands the company did not show willingness to enter into any negotiation with the union to settle the dispute. On the other hand, it pleaded loss on the ground of go-slow policy adopted by the employees. This was a serious charge. But no attempt was made by the company to substantiate the allegation. We may observe that even during the strike, the Labour Commissioner advised the company to grant an interim relief of Rs. 5 per month to each workman and agreed to refer the dispute regarding basic wages, etc., to the Tribunal for adjudication. This also shows that even the Labour Commissioner was satisfied about the reasonableness of the demands for increase of basic wages. But the company did not accept the proposal of the Labour Commissioner and soon after terminated the services of the strikers by a notice. Again after the Government of West Bengal issued the notice under section 10(3) of the Act, the Union showed its readiness to ask the strikers to join, if those under arrest or behind prison bars, were bailed out. This conduct is consistent only with the union's bona fide in lunching the strike. But the management remained adamant. In our opinion, a genuine trade dispute had been raised by the Mazdoor Union and we do not think that the strike, started in such circumstances, was mala fide or unjustified.

Now the question for consideration is whether in terminating the services of the striking employees the management acted honestly and in good faith, and its order of dismissal can be sustained. The Tribunal has held that the management had not terminated their services vindictively or capriciously and its order cannot be set aside for the simple reason that for mere participation in an illegal strike the management was competent to terminate the services of the strikers. With this view we cannot agree. The right of the workmen to strike for supporting a collective demand, which could form the subject matter of an industrial dispute, as defined under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, has been recognised by the Indian Legislature by necessary implications. It was held by this Tribunal in case of Smith Stanistreet Co., Ltd. (1953 L.A.C., page 31) that a strike does not by itself put an end to the relationship of employer and employee, nor can an employer terminate the services of a workman for mere participation in a strike which is not illegal, as also for his mere participation in an illegal strike where there is no appropriate provision in the standing orders. The same view was re-iterated by this Tribunal in the case of Punjab National Bank, Ltd. (1953 L.A.C., page 1). In neither of these two cases was the strike held to be unjustified. In the case of Ram Krishna Iron Foundry (1954 L.A.C., page 73) the question arose whether an employer can dismiss a workman for joining a strike which is not illegal but is found to be unjustified. The matter was referred for decision to a Full Bench of this Tribunal, consisting of 4 Judges. The Full Bench accepted the correctness of the decisions of this Tribunal in the cases of Smith Stanistreet and the Punjab National Bank, and answered the questions referred to it as follows:—

> "(1) that a workman cannot be dismissed for joining a strike which is not illegal but which is simply unjustified;
> (2) that the employer, however, will have the right to dismiss a workman joining an unjustified strike—
> (a) when the strike itself was not bona fide;
> (b) when it was launched on other extraneous considerations and not solely with a view to bettering the conditions of labour."

The management therefore could not, on the authority of the decisions of this Tribunal and on principle, terminate the services of the appellants for mere participating in the strike, whether legal or illegal. But it was open to the management to terminate the services of the strikers, if they were guilty of any acts of violence or subversive activities during the strike. It was laid down in the case of Buckingham & Carnatic Co., Ltd. (1952 L.A.C., page 490), that if the employer acts in good faith and with fairness in terminating the services of an employee, its decision is final and cannot be questioned by Tribunal. But if the employer does not act in a bona fide manner or is guilty of victimisation or unfair labour practice or acts in violence of the principles of natural justice or in a vindictive or capricious manner, in terminating the services of an employee, the Tribunal has power to review the management's decision in exercise of its supervisory power and give adequate relief. We have already held that the strike was legal, bona fide and justified. The services of the workmen could not, therefore, be terminated by the management, even if its action were bona fide. But even assuming that the strike was not bona fide the termination of the services of the strikers justified only if they were guilty of specific acts of violence or subversive activities. But in exercising this power the management must not act vindictively or capriciously. We may observe that in this case the conduct of the management, in dismissing the appellants, was not fair or above board for it terminated the services of the striking employees in a summary manner by a general notice, issued on 24th May 1951. The allegation in that notice was that the strikers had committed various illegal acts and had prevented people from going to and coming out of the factory, under threats of violence. This was indeed a very serious charge of misconduct for which the employees could be dismissed under the provisions of the standing orders. But it was obligatory on the part of the management to frame a proper charge sheet, calling for an explanation from the delinquents and hold an enquiry into the allegations before terminating their services. But admittedly no charge sheet was framed against any of them, nor was any opportunity given them to explain their conduct. Their services were terminated by the management for the alleged misconducts by a summary method of general notice, as already stated, in order to avoid, in our opinion, any enquiry upon a written charge. Thus, the fundamental rule of natural justice was already violated. In adopting this expedient we must hold the management acted vindictively and capriciously and not in good faith. This method, in our view, was adopted to break the strike and weaken the position of the Mazdoor Union. The events that followed, show that their design succeeded, for the majority of the strikers rejoined and a new union, called the Sramik Union, was formed, of which the deserters, who had rejoined their services, became its members and it was duly registered and recognised by the management. And it is curious to notice that the Government of West Bengal amended the original order of reference, dated the 25th July 1951 and substituted the Sramik Union for the Mazdoor Union and later on filed a petition of compromise, as already stated. A perusal of its written statement and the compromise petition leaves no manner of doubt that the new union had been sponsored by the management and was subservient to its design. The company was clearly actuated by motives of victimisation and resorted to unfair labour practice in adopting the summary method, and as the strike, in our opinion, was bona fide justified and not illegal, the appellants are entitled to reinstatement which is the normal relief to be granted in case of wrongful dismissal, that is, they are to be put back in the same position with back pay and allowances and other privileges as if they had never been dismissed. This rule of restitution must apply as the employer, in our opinion, was entirely to blame. Nothing has been placed before us by reason of which we can deviate from this salutary rule. It was, however, faintly suggested on behalf of the company, that there has been great delay and new hands have been employed by the company and therefore reinstatement cannot be ordered. So far as delay is concerned, the appellants are not to blame for that and we may state that nothing has been placed before us to show that any new hand has been taken in by the company. But even if it were so, reinstatement cannot be refused, for the appellants ought not to suffer for the wrongful act of the management. Delay, however, is a cogent factor which ought to be taken into consideration in assessing the quantum of compensation. The strike was commenced on the 27th April 1951 and the services of the workmen were terminated on the 24th May 1951. Had the strike been illegal, the appellants could not have been entitled to their wages for the period of strike (vide Mahalaxmi Cotton Mills, Ltd. vs. Their Workmen, 1952 L.A.C., page 370), nor could they be held entitled to wages after the Government of West Bengal issued the order on the 3rd of August 1951 under section 10(3) of the Act, because the strike after that, was illegal. But if the strike was illegal, the lockout was equally illegal, for it was not lifted after the said Government order under section 10(3) of the Act was issued. In such circumstances, the appellants cannot be deprived of their wages from the 3rd of August 1951. But if we allow compensation for the whole period of their unemployment, the financial burden on the industry concerned may be so heavy that it may be adversely affected. There is no evidence before us to show that ever since the appellants were dismissed, they remained unemployed, nor is there any evidence showing the length of their service. In view of the very long delay Shri Acharya conceded that he would be satisfied if a reasonable amount is fixed as compensation in terms of wages. We think, therefore, that the ends of justice would be fully met if we order compensation to be paid at the rate of six months' basic wages with dearness allowance, beside reinstatement of all of them, with continutity of service.

In the result, the appeal is allowed. The appellants must be reinstated with continuity of service, if they report themselves for duty at the office of the company during office hours within one month from this date. They will also be paid compensation as directed above. But the case must go back to the Tribunal below, for decision on issues 1 to 5 on which the Tribunal did not record its findings. We award Rs. 500 as costs to the appellants.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 11, 1955

PART VI—Bills introduced in Parliament of India; Reports of Select Committees presented to Parliament; and Bills published before introduction in Parliament.

RAJYA SABHA.

The following Bill was introduced in the Rajya Sabha on the 14th April, 1955:—

Bill No. V of 1955.

A Bill further to amend the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Sixth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Act, 1955.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Amendment of section 3, Act XXVI of 1881.

2. In section 3 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act), for the definition of the word "banker", the following definition shall be substituted, namely:—

" 'banker' includes any person acting as a banker and any post office savings bank.".

Amendment of section 25, Act XXVI of 1881.

3. In section 25 of the principal Act, in the Explanation, the words "New Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good Friday;" shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In pursuance of a recommendation of the Rural Banking Enquiry Committee, the Government of India appointed in 1950 a two-member committee to conduct an enquiry into the working of the Post Office Savings Bank and to suggest improvements with a view to increasing its popularity. One of the recommendations of that committee, which Government have accepted, is that facilities for deposit and withdrawal of money by cheques should be provided, subject to certain conditions, at selected Post Office Savings Banks. To implement the above recommendation, it is necessary to bring Post Office Savings Banks within the purview of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, and for that purpose it is proposed to amend the definition of "banker" in section 3 of that Act so as to include Post Office Savings Banks therein expressly.

2. In the Explanation to section 25, New Year's day, Christmas day and Good Friday are expressly included in addition to Sundays within the expression "public holiday" whereas all other public holidays are declared as such by notification in the Official Gazette. There is no justification for the specific mention of these three holidays in the Explanation. It is accordingly proposed to omit from the aforesaid Explanation the specific reference to New Year's day, Christmas day and Good Friday which like other public holidays will be declared as public holidays by notification in the Gazette.

3. The Bill is designed to achieve the two objects mentioned above.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The West Bengal Security Act, 1950 (West Ben. Act XIX of 1950) came into force on and from the 26th January, 1950. The various provisions of the Act have since been modified by West Bengal Acts XLVI of 1950, XXXII of 1951 and V of 1953, to overcome practical difficulties and to bring them in harmony with the views expressed by the judiciary in matters dealt with under the Act. The Act will expire after the 25th January, 1956.

2. The object of the present Bill is to extend the Act for five more years. Amendments consequential to the passing of the Press (Objectionable Matter) Act, 1951 (LVI of 1951) are also being undertaken. A few other amendments have become necessary to make the provisions of the Act conform to the Constitution of India and also to remove defects.

The reasons for the different clauses of the Bill are explained below:—

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 2.

This clause extends the life of the Act for five years.

Clause 3.

Sub-clause (1).—The definition of "prejudicial report" in section 2(4) is omitted, as the matter is covered partly by the Press (Objectionable Matter) Act, 1951 and partly by the ordinary law.

Sub-clause (2).—In the definition of "subversive act" in section 2(9)(b)(iii), the word "liquid" is omitted, as "substance" includes "liquid".

Clause 4.

The proviso to section 3 is considered superfluous and is, therefore, omitted.

Clause 5.

Section 5(b) is omitted, as "evasion or attempt at evasion" amounts to "failure to comply" and is covered by section 5(a).

Clause 6.

Sub-clause (1).—The restrictions imposed under the provisions of section 6(1) should be in the public interest or in the interest of the places protected and must not be unreasonable. Hence the amendment.

Sub-clauses (2) and (3).—This clause amends section 6(2) and (3) in order to permit delegation of powers to a person in authority connected with the protected place for issue of permits.

Sub-clauses (4) and (5).—Sub-sections (5) and (6) of section 6 are amended to provide for penalty for contravention of any of the provisions of section 6. In the existing Act, no punishment is prescribed for loitering in the vicinity of a protected place.

Clause 7.

Sub-clause (1).—The restrictions imposed under the provisions of section 7(1) should be in the public interest or in the interest of the areas protected. The section is amended on this line, so that the provisions are in conformity with the Constitution.

Sub-clause (2).—This clause removes a minor drafting defect.

Clause 8.

Section 9 is omitted, as sub-section (a) is superfluous in view of sections 6 and 7 of the Act and sub-section (b) permits unreasonable restrictions.

Clause 9.

Sub-clause (1).—This clause amends section 10(1) to remove a minor drafting defect.

Sub-clause (2).—This clause amends section 10(2) in order to make the provisions more specific and to cover all classes of persons employed.

Clause 10.

This clause is consequential to the passing of the Press (Objectionable Matter) Act, 1951.

Clause 11.

This clause is consequential to the passing of the Press (Objectionable Matter) Act, 1951 (LVI of 1951).

Clause 12.

This clause amends section 14 by omitting the words "or liquid", for the word "substance" includes "liquid".

Clause 13.

This clause amends section 17(1) so as to authorise the officers, empowered under the section, to impose curfew, only for specific purposes.

Clause 14.

This clause amends section 19(1) to remove a minor drafting defect.

Clause 15.

This clause amends section 21(1)(d), as it permits unreasonable restrictions on the movement of a person.

Clause 16.

This clause deletes sub-section (2) of section 24, as the power conferred by sub-section (1) is sufficient for prohibiting or restricting unlawful drilling.

Clause 17.

This clause omits the word "official" in section 25(1), as there cannot be any unofficial police force.

Clause 18.

This clause deletes section 26, as the powers to be exercised by any officer under this section are too wide and requisite powers are given to police officers under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (Act V of 1898).

Clause 19.

This clause amends section 27 so as to make specific provision that information obtained by virtue of this section cannot be used against the person furnishing it. This will bring this section in harmony with the Constitution.

Clause 20.

This clause omits as superfluous sub-sections (4) and (5) of section 30, as sub-section (1) confers power to frame rules to prescribe the manner of service of notices.

Clause 21.

This clause omits section 35, as the powers conferred by this section are now considered to be unnecessary.

Clause 22.

This clause amends section 36(1) by substituting the words "civil and criminal court" for the word "Court".

Clause 23.

This clause is consequential to clause 8, which omits section 9.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of complaints under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, filed by Ramlal Paul, Narendra Nath Ghosh against Bejoy Chandra Paul, Panchanan Sikdar and Hemanta Kumar Ghosh against Jatindra Nath Dutta, Nimai Chandra Sikdar against Upendra Nath Sikdar, Indra Narayan Ghosh and Radhashyam Mookherjee against Gopal Chandra Ghosh, Rakhal Das, Sudhir Patnaik and Nasib Sahani against Kalipada Das, represented by Calcutta Porters' Union, 1, Joy Bhattacherjee Lane, Calcutta-3.

BEFORE THE SIXTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL, CALCUTTA.

PRESENT:

SHRI SAILESH SENGUPTA, Judge, Sixth Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances.

For the contractors: Shri Jitendra Nath Dutt, Shri Kalipada Das and Shri Gopal Chandra Ghosh, contractors.

For the workmen: Shri Panchanan Bhattacherjee, Secretary, Calcutta Porters' Union.

The original reference out of which these applications have arisen was made under Government order Nos. 173-Dis./D/11L-222/52, dated Calcutta, the 13th January 1953 and 4293Dis./D/11L-222/53, dated Calcutta, the 19th November 1953.

These nine applications under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, presented by workers who claimed to have been thrown out of employment by their employers have been heard together, as they are of the same pattern and common questions of facts have arisen. Relief is claimed by way of reinstatement and compensation for the period of unemployment.

Primarily the defence taken by the Labour contractors who are the opposite parties is that these men are casual workers and are not entitled to invoke the aid of section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act. In some cases there is the further defence that the applicants did not work for the particular contractor.

As pointed out above the main defence is that these labourers used to be hired for particular jobs and were paid for the same. On the completion of the job the relationship between the contractors and the employees (labourers) was dissolved. Hence the status of the workers was that of a casual nature. No relationship of employer and employee subsisted on the termination of the particular engagement. The Award made on the main reference dealt with the question of increment on the existing rate of wages of the workers. The system under which the labourers were engaged was that they used to be paid Rs. 6-10-0 for every 400 bags worked upon. Prior notice used to be given that the services of the workers would be required on the following day. If per chance the job was not available, the workers got Rs. 3-10-0 per day as compensatory allowance. It necessarily follows that if no previous notice assuring the workers of engagement on the day following was given, nothing was payable. That is also the evidence given by P.W. 1, deposing on behalf of the Union. No plea was taken in that proceeding that these men were casual workers. Relationship of employer and employee was not questioned at all. The argument that relief under section 33A is not available as there is no relationship of employer and employee is hence futile.

The evidence adduced before the Tribunal proves that each contractor has got a certain number of labourers serving under him. The group serving under a particular contractor sticks to him and is not diverted to take up engagement under any other contractor unless some of them are without any job and another contractor has short supply of labourers. The evidence of O.P.W. 1. may be referred to on this point. He deposed that "if there is shortage of labourers, one contractor can take labourers of other contractors but they are recruited as casual workers". But for such exceptional cases labourers align themselves as permanent workers under particular contractors. I must hold accordingly that the labourers who have been thrown out of employment during the pendency of the reference are entitled to have relief under Section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

DECISION.

Case No. 127 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Ram Lal Paul ... Petitioner,

Bejoy Chandra Paul, 19, Jorabagan Street, Calcutta ... Opposite party.

He is alleged to have been discharged on 18th January 1953. In the written statement the contractor stoutly denied that this petitioner served under him in 1952. According to the contractor he was employed as casual worker for some time before Aswin 1359 B.S. In view of this categorical denial some evidence should have been adduced that during the relevant period this workman was attached to the labour force under the contractor. Since no such evidence was adduced, I cannot find in favour of the petitioner. His application must fail. It is hence rejected.

Case No. 215 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Narendra Nath Ghosh ... Petitioner,

Besides the general objection that the petitioner was engaged on daily wage basis and his service terminated on the completion of the day's work, there is no plea that he was not serving under the contractor. As the general plea has been decided adversely to the contractors, the finding of the Tribunal is that he has been improperly thrown out of employment and should be reinstated. In assessing compensation the Tribunal is faced with enormous difficulties. Admittedly the engagement of the labourers depended upon the volume of work available. If no work was available the labourers were not entitled to anything. It is not possible to make any guess as to how much work the petitioner would have been in a position to execute if he was not discharged in October 1953. Together with this we have to consider that after termination of the employment the worker must have strained every nerve to secure alternative occupation to earn his living. No evidence was adduced that this labourer had to sit idle all the time since October 1953. In all probability he took up some other calling so that he might keep the wolf from the door. The learned Union representative pleaded for compensation at the rate of Rs. 50 for each of these workers. Having regard to the facts stated above, I am not in a position to hold that compensation at the rate suggested would be just and fair. The position is unsatisfactory. Assessment made in these circumstances cannot but be somewhat arbitrary. I direct that Rs. 20 be paid to this petitioner as compensation by the contractor. He is to be reinstated.

Case No. 172 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Shri Narendra Nath Ghosh ... Petitioner,

Shri Bejoy Chandra Paul, Labour contractor of 19, Jorabagan Street, Calcutta ... Opposite party.

Narendra Nath Ghosh filed another application for recovery of his wages. Arrears of wages may be collected by process of the general law. The Industrial Disputes Act is not designed for relief in this form. If wages are due the petitioner can pursue his remedies elsewhere. This application is hence rejected.

Case No. 58 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Nimai Chandra Sikdar ... Petitioner,

versus

Upendra Nath Sikdar of 15/4, Jorabagan Street, Calcutta ... Opposite party.

Nimai was alleged to have been discharged on 16th January 1953. Since he is admitted to have served under the contractor he is entitled to reinstatement on the Tribunal's finding that the employment was not of casual nature. He should be paid Rs. 30 as compensation and reinstated.

Case No. 173 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Shri Hemanta Kumar Ghosh and Panchanan Sikdar ... Petitioners,

versus

Jatindra Nath Dutt, 15/1, Surendra Nath Sen Lane, Calcutta ... Opposite party.

The contractor Jatindra Nath Dutta denied outright in his written statement that these two men ever served under him as labourers. No evidence to the contrary was adduced on behalf of the petitioners. In the absence of evidence, the Tribunal cannot hold that the petitioners were employees under the contractor. They are not entitled to any relief under the section. The application is accordingly rejected.

Case No. 156 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Shri Panchanan Sikdar ... Petitioner,

versus

Shri Jatindra Nath Dutta of 15/1, Surendra Nath Sen Lane, Calcutta ... Opposite party.

A separate application was filed by Panchanan Sikdar for recovery of past wages. Recovery of wages cannot be made by an application under the section. The petitioner has got to seek his remedy elsewhere. The application must hence fail. It is hence rejected.

Case No. 185 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Shri Rakhal Das, Shri Sudhir Patnaik and Shri Nasib Sahani ... Petitioners,

versus

Shri Kalipada Das, of 19, Natherbagan Street, Calcutta.

Rakhal appeared as a witness for the contractors. He has been re-employed by Kalipada Das. In examination-in-chief he stated that he has no application before the Tribunal. His name appears as one of the signatories to the application. Since he disowns the application, no relief should be provided for in the award.

No denial of employment of the other two workers under the contractor appears in the written statement. As they have been thrown out of employment, they (viz., Sudhir Patnaik and Nasib Sahani) are entitled to reinstatement and compensation at the rate of Rs. 25 each. I award accordingly.

Case No. 214 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Indronarayan Biswas and Radhashyam Mookherjee ... Petitioners,

versus

Shri Gopal Chandra Ghose of 5, Natherbagan Lane, Calcutta ... Opposite party.

It is alleged that they were discharged in October 1953. In paragraph 2 of the written statement the contractor denied that these men worked under him before or after September 1953. In the face of this denial some evidence should have been produced that these labourers were really attached to the group serving under the contractor at the relevant period. In the absence of evidence relief as sought for cannot be granted. The application is hence rejected.

Case No. 111 of 1953 under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act.

Shri Sudhir Kumar Dey ... Petitioner,

versus

Shri Ananta Guchhait of 54, Mandal Street Bye Lane, Calcutta ... Opposite party.

That the petitioner was entrusted with work by the opposite party is admitted in the written statement. His services were dispensed with on 21st June 1954. He is therefore entitled to reinstatement. Rs. 10 is awarded by way of compensation besides reinstatement.

All payments be made within 30 days from the date of publication of the award in the Calcutta Gazette.

BEFORE THE SIXTH INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL, WEST BENGAL, CALCUTTA, NEW SECRETARIAT BUILDINGS, THIRD FLOOR.

PRESENT:

SHRI SAILESH SENGUPTA, Judge, Sixth Industrial Tribunal.

Appearances.

For the Company: Shri S. K. Asthana, Labour Adviser, Engineering Association of India.

For the Workmen: Shri Jagannath Pandey with Shri Sudhir Banerjee, Joint General Secretaries of the Union.

The original reference out of which these complaints have arisen was made under Government order No. 2835Dis./D/11L-34/52, dated the 22nd October 1952 and subsequent order No. 4396Dis./D/11L-96/53, dated the 19th November 1953.

AWARD.

These are two applications under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act presented by two employees who were removed from the posts they were holding at a time when a reference under section 10 of the said Act was pending for adjudication.

Case No. 187/33A/53.

This case was settled by compromise. As the terms are fair and reasonable they are accepted. Parties will abide by these terms.

Terms.

1. It is agreed that Shri Bholanath Sur will have continuity of his service with effect from the 7th August 1952.

2. It is further agreed that Shri Sur will get his usual benefits as a result of his continuous service as from the 7th August 1952, if he is entitled to them.

Case No. 186/33A/53.

The petitioner was a driver engaged to work as chauffeur of the motor-car numbered WBC 7972 used by Mr. Keir, General Manager of the Company, National Rolling and Steel Ropes, Limited. This Company and four other sister concerns are controlled by Associated Industrial Development Company, as Managing Agents. The petitioner's case is that he was suddenly discharged on 7th February 1953. On the Company's attention being drawn that an injustice was done to him, he was offered the alternative post of a fitter helper with less favourable terms and conditions of service. His services were again terminated on 31st March 1953. After a period of unemployment he was re-appointed as a fitter helper on 4th May 1953 and is continuing as such since then. As the remuneration and conditions of service of the present post bear no comparison with the pay and conditions of the driver's post, the Company contravened section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, not having obtained the Tribunal's permission in causing the alteration in the service conditions. The petitioner claimed reinstatement as driver with consequential relief in the form of recovery of pay and other benefits.

The Company's case is that on the retirement of Mr. Keir, the car used by him was sold away. The services of the driver not being in demand any more he had to be discharged. On the special pleading of the Union to which the driver is affiliated he was appointed a fitter helper though he had no knowledge or experience of that kind of job. It was an act of mercy shown to this employee on the earnest entreaties of the Union. On the completion of the job, retrenchment had to be made on 31st March 1953. At the earliest opportunity the Company took him back on the 4th May 1953 when an opening could be found to fit him in. The action taken was for bona fide trade reasons and there was no improper motive actuating the Company.

During the hearing and in course of argument the learned Union representative introduced tangents and sought to supplement the case as made out in the written statement by new matters. As these points are not covered by the written statement I would confine discussions to the case actually set out. There can be no controversy that drastic changes had been effected by which the petitioner has been adversely affected. As a driver he was drawing Rs. 100 as basic pay and Rs. 42-8-0 as dearness allowance. As a fitter he earns Rs. 2-4 per day and Rs. 48 as dearness allowance. This shift from a post carrying higher pay to one with less remuneration was made during the pendency of the reference. Section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act was hence clearly contravened. In the written statement paragraph 7, the petitioner's case is that after his discharge another driver was appointed in his place. This case has been thoroughly demolished. The Works Manager Mr. P. N. Joshi has given evidence that the car used by Mr. Keir was sold away and no other driver was appointed after the petitioner's services were dispensed with. The petitioner has admitted that the same car is being used by Mr. Poti, Manager of NICCO. He has further admitted that National Rolling & Steel Ropes has got only one car now which is used by Mr. Joshi. Formerly there were two cars. It however appears one Ghanashyam was a cleaner who later on graduated into a lorry driver. The petitioner holds a composite license authorising him to drive light cars as well as heavy motor trucks. Mr. Joshi admitted that if the date of appointment as driver is considered then the petitioner would be found senior to Ghanashyam. Though senior in service Ghanashyam is junior to the petitioner qua-driver. In making retrenchment the principle to be followed is that the last appointed person has to yield precedence to his or her seniors. On this principle the petitioner should have been given preference and Ghanashyam should have made room for him. The Works Manager deposed that at the request of the Union for an alternative job to be given to the petitioner, an opening was created for him to work as a fitter helper. He meant to say that no suggestion was thrown out at the time, that the petitioner might supplant Ghanashyam. Somehow or other this was overlooked and the senior man got the sack. This has got to be set right. I am satisfied that the Company acted bona fide. Questioned by the Tribunal the learned representative for the Company conceded that the situation might have been differently dealt with, had the management realised that on account of his seniority in the grade of drivers, Madhusudan Raut was entitled to supersede Ghanashyam. It is open to the Tribunal now to right the wrong done. The petitioner must be reinstated as driver with effect from 7th February 1953.

As the ground specifically raised in the written statement is found untenable and the petitioner succeeds on a different ground, I do not make any order for compensation, specially in view of my finding the Company's conduct was marked by transparent honesty and kindly consideration for the employee.
